Matthew Baker has joined SUNPAN to run its new Houston Warehouse.

SUNPAN is pleased to announce the appointment of Matthew Baker to lead the charge of its newly constructed 200,000-square-foot Houston warehouse facility in Baytown, TX. With more than two decades of management experience gained from working with leading American companies, Baker is set to play a pivotal role in scaling SUNPAN's presence in the United States.

"We are thrilled to welcome Matt to SUNPAN," said Sundeep Bagga, President and CEO of SUNPAN. "His positive attitude, dedication, and strong skillset will be monumental in better serving our customers across the United States."

In his role as the Operations and Warehouse Manager for the Houston facility, Baker will manage the day-to-day operations at the facility to ensure all U.S. orders are fulfilled efficiently and smoothly. The facility is set to launch in the coming weeks.

"Matt's involvement in this new operation will change the way we do business tremendously," said Carl Lovett, SUNPAN's Vice President of Sales. "Having a warehouse that is local to a large portion of our customers will transform the way they shop and engage with SUNPAN."

As SUNPAN continues to exponentially grow in the United States, the opening of its Houston warehouse facility reflects the company's dedication to maintaining superior standards and putting customers' needs first. The Houston facility will allow for more in stock inventory, faster shipments, and the option for American customers to pick up orders from its warehouse.

Additional information about the Houston, Texas expansion will become available later this year.
