There is no dream big enough that could ever intimidate the creative mind of Massibilliano. Massibilliano grew up with the dream of one day working amongst people he admired in show business. Born to Italian parents, he was raised in Germany, and it was here where that dream began to brew. Years of putting in hard work eventually led him to work as a manager and producer for artists like Stevie B, Pitbull, Timbaland, and more. But just as all creative minds are driven by taking on new projects, Massibilliano felt inspired to start up a new career and broaden his network. With a dream to work in front of the camera, Massibilliano launched his clothing brand for pants, MyPuzzy, in 2020 and since then has only been focusing on reaching new heights by becoming one of the hottest women's clothing brands.

As someone who had worked for years in the entertainment industry as a manager and producer for musicians, Massibilliano entered the fashion game with no prior knowledge. He was inspired to create his own line of pants for women from a vision he had while walking in the streets of Germany. "I just came home and started to draw these pants I saw in my mind and after that, it was just one pair of pants after the other. So, I showed my sketches to people around me and they were impressed," he says. "I didn't know how I was going to do it but that was the day I realized I wanted to start my own jeans and fashion brand."

The idea was to design a pair of pants that would make every woman feel sexy wearing them. MyPuzzy has a little bit of everything, whether you want a pair of fair-fitting jeans, leather pants, or leather pants that show a window of skin and wrapped in ribbon, there's one waiting for you to make them your own. Massibilliano created this brand to emulate the feeling of wearing lingerie in public, to make one feel sexy and confident. He also uses new technology to get each tailoring just right for each customer. It is a 3D body scanning app that accurately measures a customer's size to make sure that each pair of pants fit perfectly for them.

What makes MyPuzzy stand out is that they approach the production of their clothing in an eco-friendly manner by choosing to not mass produce. His designs are sustainable and limited which allows him to offer a factor of exclusivity with his products. MyPuzzy clothing is eye-catching and sexy, and all made in Italy with luxury fabrics and accessories.

While Massibilliano has been garnering momentum and success with his brand, it took a while to get to where he is. New to this industry, he learned the hard way that not all designs on paper translate well onto fabric. He did not let this roadblock stop him and soon enough he began to learn what it takes to have success in fashion. "I overcame all challenges with perseverance, patience, and ambition," he says. "For me there are no problems that can't be solved, I just had to do a lot of research on the topic."

With dreams to make MyPuzzy known worldwide as the sexiest women's brand, he hopes to show others that you have power in taking control of which direction your life is going in. "You should always be passionate about what you do, even if it is something that is new to you," he says. "I created my own brand with thousands of ideas waiting to be produced and released to the world, and all of that started with a sketch I drew when I had no experience in this industry." Massibilliano is no more than ready to showcase his brand to the rest of the world. He hopes to show others that you have power in taking control of which direction your life is going in. Get ready for Massibilliano to take MyPuzzy to the next level and continue to revolutionize what it means to feel sexy in your jeans.
