

Daily Express

NICOLE JOHNSON

HANNAH HOUSTON

FRAN McDOUGALL

SARA WINGROVE

device fits between the cleavage as you sleep and aims to keep breasts properly supported at bedtime, ultimately preventing wrinkles forming. It's also said to alleviate back pain caused by a larger bust.

THE VERDICT

work in the lingerie industry and see women struggle with larger chests. I'm no exception. Not only do I often have a bad back but I'm worried my breasts will soon start to droop. I'd heard great things about Kush support from a friend who told me it had solved her back pains and kept her cleavage crease-free. It's easy to use and comfortable to wear although it does take a few nights to get used to. Sadly it couldn't stay in place and by morning was lost in the covers instead of tucked between my breasts. I even started to wear a cardigan to bed to try to keep it in place but nothing worked. I haven't experienced any benefits. I can see this working but for women who perhaps don't move around much in their sleep. COST: £29.99 (0844 551 0407/ thekushcompany.com)

BOOSTING SUPPLEMENT

FRAN McDOUGALL, 27, is a size 34AA and a freelance costumer who lives in Hitchin, Herts, with her two sons. She tried The Perfect C Breast Enhancer supplement for two months

HOW IT WORKS

These herbal capsules claim to boost the bust by up to three cup sizes with long-lasting results. They contain a blend of botanical ingredients that claim to promote natural oestrogen production in the body which can enhance the size of your cleavage.

THE VERDICT

Although I've never been busty my breasts have lost all volume since breastfeeding. I'd love to regain their original size of 34B.

Taking six capsules daily with my breakfast soon became routine and luckily they didn't have any aftertaste. I also made a point of drinking more water as one to two litres a day is recommended for the best results.

After a few weeks I was delighted to notice a slight change to the size of my breasts. They looked much firmer and began to feel tender so I was optimistic that they'd continue to inflate.

Unfortunately, after the initial growth spurt of half a cup size, nothing else happened for the remainder of the trial. COST: £199 for a three-month supply (0191 291 3385/perfect-c.com)

PLUMPING SERUM

SARA WINGROVE, 43, is a size 36B and a public relations consultant who lives in Amersham, Bucks, with her husband Mike and three children. She tried Jeanne Piaubert Decollete 3D+ serum for one month

HOW IT WORKS

When applied straight after mealtimes it's claimed this luxury serum captures fat from your food and redistributes it to cleavage, plumping breast tissue. It contains an anti-stretching ingredient to protect skin so breasts get b

THE VERDICT Breastfeeding, three children, quick success