RIA KELLY CLAIM: BIGGER BOOBS

Product: The Perfect C, available from independent clinics and salons, priced £199 for three months' supply.

Makers say: "The Perfect C combines an exotic mix of rare botanicals that naturally contain oestrogenic properties. When consumed, these properties stimulate the oestrogen receptor sites, which in turn encourage the growth of new breast tissue while firming and tightening the entire breast."

Tested by: RIA Kelly, 26, a hedge fund manager from Purfleet in Essex.

want them back again! I was quite surprised that there are products like this on the market, and despite the 'scientific' research behind the boob growing tabs, I was a little dubious as to whether they really would work. "And I was right to be sceptical. They didn't work at all. My chest is exactly the same size as when I started the trial. "This is a complete gimmick if you ask me - at a hefty price." Verdict: They simply don't work.

£199 FOR 3 MONTHS SUPPLY TESTED FOR 3 MONTHS

AISSA KELLY CLAIM: CLEARER SKIN

Product: Advanced Nutrition Skin Vitality, available in salons and spas nationwide, priced £29.95. Four capsules per day, each box contains a 28-day supply.

Makers say: "A multivitamin and mineral complex that promotes healthy, clear skin and can work to improve total body wellbeing."

Tried by: Aissa Kelly, 24, a human resources officer from Sittingbourne in Kent.

She says: "I suffer from spots sometimes as my skin can get oily. I sampled the tablets for one month and my spots looked less red and my face was generally smoother. "I had no negative side effects and wasn't worried about taking the tablets as all the ingredients seemed natural. I would buy them again, but they are probably a little pricey to have on a regular basis." Verdict: These tablets definitely do something to improve your skin, but they are expensive.
