GYRO SWING

As Bruce Lee famously said in Enter The Dragon, 'Don't think... feel.' That's exactly the philosophy behind this ingenious swing trainer. There is so much to think about when trying to produce the perfect golf swing that you often mess it up purely because you're over-analysing on your way through and henceforth lose the natural feel of the swing. The Gyro Swing takes the thinking out of your swing. It works by way of a gyroscope in the clubhead, which spins at 20,000 rpm forcing the club onto the correct swing path with a perfect arc. If any element of your swing is wrong the gyroscope will resist and force you back on path. You'll soon be trained into producing the correct backswing, downswing, weight shift, impact and release - if all of these elements are correct you will feel nothing, but make a mistake and the gyroscope will let you know all about it.

Sennheiser HD 435

As with most Sennheiser headphones, these little beauties are a masterpiece in sound quality and comfort. Look on the Sennheiser website and you'll find plenty of exceedingly satisfied customers who have bought a pair of HD 435s gushing that they are 'simply perfect' and not hesitating to score them 10/10. That may be slightly over the top and there are certainly better headphones on the market, but you'll pay a good whack for them and in the low-mid price range you'd be hard pushed to beat the HD 435s. Crystal clear quality and immensely powerful sound with very little noise spillage combined with supreme padded comfort make these a seriously good set of headphones for a relatively small financial outlay.

Roberts DAB Revival Radio

THIS nostalgic 1950s style radio is just like those that were popular in the days of rock n roll except for one key feature - it's a digital. It looks magnificent and brings to mind a time when everything was simpler with its rotary tuning and volume controls, leather casing and carry handle. But it's actually a DAB radio with access to any worldwide FM/DAB waveband. It's got 120 hours of battery life, an LCD station name display panel, auto tune, backlighting and headphone socket. The best of both worlds!
