

Hello Winter!

Brrrr...it's cold outside!

If you live in the top part of the earth right now, you are probably playing in the snow, drinking warm cocoa, and noticing that the sun goes down sooner!

Even with the shorter days and chilly weather, winter can be fun! Building snowmen, tossing snowballs, skating or skiing, and watching animals and birds as they brave the cold outside!

Take time to explore the season with great curiosity and enjoy the last few weeks before Sprint weather arrives!

Hey, Kujo! Show Update – First Episode Release

Hey, Kujo!, the new and updated version of the previous Kujo's Kid Zone show, has launched online with our first official episode!

Just in time for Kwanzaa, a yearly African American celebration from December 26 until January 1 each year, people are invited to connect with their culture, remember ancestors and traditions.

Kwanzaa is also a time to reflect on being a good person and helping others.

In this episode, Kujo realizes he is late getting the community centre ready for Kwanzaa.

He enlists the help of Gram, Tandeep, Jaden, Bernard the Beaver, Madison, and amazing dancers and drummers to prepare.

And there's Kujo Vincent, Kujo's french-speaking alter ego, who always wants to make a bit of trouble! Oh boy!

Stay tuned for more episodes releases coming every two weeks over the next few months, so visit the Hey, Kujo! website and YouTube for updates!

Ask questions of the world, so you can learn to Be Kind, Be Brave, Be Curious, and most importantly, Be Yourself!

Science with Amira

It's a Winter Wonderland!

Did you know that snow is special in many ways?

The word 'snow' is believed to come from ancient Viking people. In Iceland, it is pronounced "Snær" ('snair').

It comes in so many shapes, sizes and states, from wet clumps to light powder, even in warm temperatures.

It is believed that each snowflake is unique, just like you!

However, some scientists found there are at least 35 different types of shapes so far. Amazing!

Let's Chat about Snow!

1. What do you like about snow?
2. If you live in a place on earth that doesn't have snow, how do you think it would feel to play outside and make a snowman?
3. Where do you think animals, birds and bugs go in the winter time?
4. What name would you give a snowman?
5. Would you rather go sledding or skating?
6. Can snow be light or heavy?
7. What happens when snow gets warm?
8. What do you think snow tastes like?

Puff Puff

Kwanzaa Snack

500 ml / 2 cups very warm water
 12 ml / 2.25 teaspoons active dry yeast
 180 ml / 2/3 cup granulated sugar plus one extra 5 ml / 1 teaspoon sugar
 750 ml / 3 cups all-purpose flour
 7.5 ml / 1.5 teaspoon kosher salt
 2/5 ml / .5 teaspoon ground nutmeg
 750 ml / 3 cups cooking oil (vegetable preferred) for deep frying

In a medium bowl, pour 2 cups warmed water and add yeast and 5 ml / 1 tsp sugar. Stir and let sit until foam appears (up to 8 minutes). In a separate bowl, place flour, remaining sugar, salt, nutmeg and mix well.

When yeast water is foamy, pour warm liquid into flour. Use a mixer on low, or work with hands or wooden spoon up to 5 minutes. Cover the bowl with a kitchen towel to rise for 90-120 minutes.

Prepare your pot or portable fryer with oil. Heat to 180°C or 350°F with a thermometer. Drop 15 ml / 1 tablespoon of dough in a rounded shape, no more than 8 per batch. Fry and flip to brown both sides for 4 to 6 minutes. Serve warm.
