

Behind Their Noble Faces

(Enlightened Horsemanship)

The ultimate guide for all Horse Lovers.

This beautiful book is written and self-published by Sandra Reeves (Voice of the Animals). Her career scaled the heights of show jumping in the 80's and 90s, winning her international acclaim. In stark contrast she now maintains her son's ex-competition ponies that she has rewilded, whilst working alongside animals in a profound way.

Sandra has a huge wealth of knowledge in every area of horsemanship and horse health, acquired through decades of experience and a lifetime of watching, keeping and competing horses during which she reimagined the ways in which we interact with and take care of them.

With a head full-to-the-brim full of invaluable information and experience, which is all but wasted if not shared, Sandra shares the lessons taught to her by the best teachers the horses themselves.

Having once put her faith in her peers and the persuasive rhetoric of feed and supplement companies for the care of her prized athletes, she now sees how a more natural way forward produces far better results. She uses Phytobiophysic remedies alongside plant extracts and essential oils to support and improve their health and she has successfully healed many horses, some for whom modern drug therapy had failed.

Behind Their Noble Faces takes us on a journey that we can all learn from. Sandra highlights key shortcomings in the management and breeding of horses and shares cutting-edge research, which all scream out that we have been approaching it without true consideration, for a very long time!

It gives stage-by-stage advice on every part of owning a horse, from handling to holistic care to competing and everything else in-between. She explains the differences between the old and new methods of horsemanship and how to get the best out of your horse and the relationship you share.

She hopes this book will stand horses in better stead, gain them more of our understanding and more of our empathy so they can enjoy healthier happier lives and improved careers.

Available from:
www.sandrareeves.com/the-book

"Sandra, your book is captivating, with a brilliant writing style and inspiring message. I honestly wish I could place it in the hands of every horse/dog carer worldwide. I admire your passion and integrity in seeking to improve animal well-being, despite potential ostracization risks and would love your vision to pioneer a centre of excellence to become a reality." Philippa Malden

