Take the work out of watering

Sick of watering plants or can't be there every day?

Make life easier and use a drip or gravity fed system instead. It's easier and you get more consistent results. You'll never forget to feed - it's automated! Just keep your tank topped up and your timer set. If you grow lots of plants in coco or soil, it's the only way to go.

Stick to mineral feeds

Keep pumps and pipes free of blockages with a mineral feed. Anything from the SHOGUN range is safe. Unlike organic nutrients, they don't have any biological ingredients that could cause issues.

AutoPot Systems

Cut costs, save time and get great results!

Expand your system as much as you like - just keep adding pots! We've seen them fill commercial greenhouses!

- Cheap to run – absolutely no power needed!
- No pump - silent operating irrigation system
- Simple to set up – no timer, no pump, nothing to plug in
- Easy to maintain – the system practically takes care of itself
- Flexible layout - position pots how you want

How to fine tune your AutoPot System

Using gravity pressure

There's no pump - AutoPots use gravity to get feed to pots. Make sure your tank's at least 15cm higher than the topmost AQUAvalve.

Nutrient management

Drain off 1 - 2 Litres of nutrient every 2 weeks so sediment doesn't build up. Just turn on the taps found at the end of your pipes.

Root temperatures

Don't sit AutoPots on cold concrete floors - it can chill your nutrient solution. Instead, place a Garland Tray under each plant.

Setting the AQUAvalve

Make sure you do this before use and after cleaning. Simply remove, squish and reinsert the yellow/green rubber on the valve.

How to air prune roots

What's air pruning?

It's a way of developing a bigger, stronger root network that absorbs more water and nutrients. It's where air reaches root tips and dries them. When this happens, forward growth stops and root branching begins. Plants absorb more nutrients and water through all these extra roots.

3 reasons to try RhizoPots

Pots are made from a 'breathable' fabric that allows air to prune roots

1. Boost root mass & root branching (no root circling!)
2. Improve nutrient & water uptake
3. Aerate your root zones

To make feeding easy and ramp up rooting, use a RhizoWilma System.

RhizoWilma Systems

Fuss-free feeding, unstoppable rooting!

Forget the fuss of feeding - use a RhizoWilma System. It's as easy as growing in pots, without the hassle of hand watering. Root growth is epic - the included 12L RhizoPots see to that.

- Drive root growth (12L RhizoPots included)
- Reduce nutrient waste (recirculating system)
- Use with any growing media (inc. soil, coco, clay pebbles & rockwool!)

Delivery system includes attachments for drip lines

Handy inspection hatch for checking nutrients

Recirculate vs Run-to-Waste

When using pots we would always recommend a run-to-waste setup, such as the RhizoSystem Drip and Drain System. However, a recirculating system such as the RhizoWilma, is perfect for growers who have always previously hand watered plants.

How to fine tune your RhizoWilma System

Growing media

Mix 50% perlite or clay pebbles with 50% coco, soil or rockwool. Add a 2-4cm layer of washed gravel or clay pebbles to the bottom of each pot.

System maintenance

Keep your lines and drippers clear using ATA Clean throughout, and thoroughly clean your system with Silver Bullet Roots between crops.

Nutrient selection

Once you've chosen a growing media to use with the RhizoWilma (hydro, coco or soil), make sure you apply a suitable mineral feed.

Mixing feeds

Keep the nutrient solution in your tank well mixed with a small water pump. This helps improve nutrient uptake.
