Wooden Spoon Puppets

Kids craft that they can actually play with after they've finished? Yes please! These cute Aussie animal wooden spoon puppets can be made from an old wooden spoon and other supplies that you've already got in your craft stash.

Things you'll need:

- Acrylic paints - white, black and red should do it
- Paintbrushes
- A cereal box or similar thin cardboard
- Scissors
- Glue
- Sticky tape
- Sharpie texta
- Template (last page)

Step 1 - Printing!

Print the template onto an A4 sized piece of paper (template located on the last page.) The dotted lines are there to show you roughly where your wooden spoon would go, but yours will likely be a different size to ours so adjust as needed.

Step 2 - Painting!

Get your black and white paints and mix a grey colour, or if you add some red you can make brown. Paint your spoon all over, back and front. Then, paint your cardboard on both sides too. Leave them to dry.

Step 3 - Drawing faces!

Once your spoon is dry, copy from your template to draw the face onto your spoon with a sharpie.

Step 4 - Making Ears!

Cut the ear shapes out from your printed template. Trace around the shapes onto your painted cardboard. Cut the ears out. If you like you can paint some pink onto your ears and add some detail.

Step 4 - Glueing!

Put some glue or double sided tape at the bottom of your ears, on the front, and attach them to the back of your spoon. Secure them with some sticky tape. Leave them to dry.

You're all done! Your spoon puppets are ready for the show!
