

THE BETTER LETTERS IN 15 CHALLENGE

WEEK 3 | DAY 4 | CONNECTIONS

TRUST YOUR CREATIVITY

Today we will be practicing connecting the letters in trust.

We will start with the following connection: i-v-i-t-y

Here are examples, variations, and guidelines for the no bounce and bounce version:

The word "ivity" is written in a cursive script. The letters 'i', 'v', and 't' are highlighted with blue lines to show their exit strokes. The 'i' has a short, curved exit stroke that connects to the 'v'. The 'v' has a longer, curved exit stroke that connects to the 'i'. The 't' has a long, curved exit stroke that connects to the 'y'.

The word "ivity" is written in a cursive script, similar to the first example. The letters 'i', 'v', and 't' are highlighted with blue lines to show their exit strokes. The 'i' has a short, curved exit stroke that connects to the 'v'. The 'v' has a longer, curved exit stroke that connects to the 'i'. The 't' has a long, curved exit stroke that connects to the 'y'.

When lettering the exit strokes (blue lines), make sure the length of each helps to create consistent and equal spacing between each letter. It doesn't have to be perfect, you just don't want the space between the letters to vary too much and throw off the balance.

The v connection is quite different from all the other connections we have created. Remember to think of the connections as each individual letter put beside another. After lettering v, pick up your pen and letter the i beside it to connect it.

ivity ivity ivity ivity

ivity ivity ivity ivity

ivity ivity ivity ivity

ivity ivity ivity ivity

