

THE #BETTERLETTERSIN15 CHALLENGE

WEEK 4 | DAY 4 | DRAFTING/FINALIZING

PRACTICE MAKES PROGRESS

If you need some more time to finish drafting in pencil, go ahead and finish that up today!

Once you are done, you can begin going over all the pencil lines with your brush pen. (If you need to do some drills or want to practice the words first before you start, feel free to do so!) The pencil acts as a guideline but if there are any adjustments you'd like to make when you are lettering in ink, you can make during this time.

Take your time and go slow and steady.

I recommend tracing over the entire phrase first instead of stopping to fix any mistakes or blemishes. We will go back and make any adjustments or fix any blemishes in the very last step. (The reason I like doing it this way instead of correcting as you go is that you can really analyze the entire piece as a whole and this helps to keep it more consistent.)

The goal today is to finish lettering your final piece with your brush pen.
