MARKET SECTORS

This catalogue showcases a selection of our 'retail-ready' products, all of which can be produced as own label with a variety of printing, packaging, and display options.

Home

As the number of households continue to grow, so too do the number of first aid products purchased for home use.

What was an afterthought just a few years ago, a well-stocked kit is now becoming a familiar feature in the well-equipped family home. The increasing awareness of domestic safety, alongside the enormous range of products now designed specifically for home use, has generated a growing retail market opportunity.

What was once a utilitarian item kept out of sight, is now an attractive and modern accessory in the family kitchen or bathroom. Householders have a wider choice of consumables than ever before, and can choose from a vast array of stand-alone medical devices and items that replenish or enhance their first aid kits.

Vehicle

With over thirty-million cars now on the road in the UK, this presents a huge opportunity for the marketing and sale of vehicle first aid kits. Every day, members of the public use a diverse range of transport to go about their business. Whether using a private vehicle, hired, leased, taxi, company car, or public transport, the provision of a well-equipped first aid kit in case of an accident is increasingly more important.

Leisure and Travel

The demand in the UK for first aid kits in such areas as cycling, climbing, hiking, and a plethora of social, sporting, and other leisure activities, is growing exponentially. Reliance Medical have seized the opportunity to design a range of kits tailored specifically to cover the needs of this wide variety of leisure pursuits. Each month, more than five-million UK residents travel abroad, and packing a first aid kit in advance is rapidly becoming the norm for most consumers.
