

Intimate lubricants

Water-based & silicone-based

Presentation

Floravi lubricants are made from quality ingredients for an enjoyable experience. They are designed for personal use, but are also a good complement to natural lubrication.

When to use a lubricant ?

- At any time;
Many women use lubricant with their sexual health accessories to facilitate their use or insertion.
- To avoid difficulties;
Several studies show that one out of two women¹ has used lubricant during her life. They are often used to help lubricate genitals during penetration. It is also common for women to experience, temporarily or not, natural lubrication problems. A lot of factors can cause vaginal dryness:
 - Taking medicines such as antidepressants;
 - Tobacco;
 - A hormonal imbalance;
 - Some circumstances such as breastfeeding, prolonged sexual abstinence or simply during difficult or stressful periods;
*In all cases, consult a gynecologist if your vaginal dryness is prolonged or if you can't identify the source of the problem.
- During intimate intercourse;
It can also be a good thing to use lubricant to facilitate foreplay and during anal or vaginal penetration.

Water-based lubricant

Containing no fragrance or alcohol, Floravi water-based lubricant is hypoallergenic. Furthermore, it does not become sticky and leaves no skin irritation. Many love the Floravi water-based intimate lubricant for its realistic texture which is similar to natural female lubrication.

Silicone-based lubricant

Floravi silicone-based lubricant is also perfect for sensitive women: its soft and silky texture allows good lubrication while protecting the vaginal walls from friction. Its ingredients do not penetrate the skin pores; a few drops are enough for adequate lubrication.

Tip:

If your accessory is made of silicone, it is important to only use a water-based lubricant in order to not damage the texture.

