"THE SOURCE"

MYRA City was the Ancient Town of the Lycians civilization before the Roman Era. Lycians quarried and shaped the limestone deposits to build houses, common areas and various other structures that still remain intact. We are proud to process this natural limestone that has preserved its tradition and beauty over centuries.

GENERAL INFORMATION

STONE:

Blocks of stone are extracted from the quarry beds by a system of cutting machines. Then they are transported to a factory to be cut down to slabs by water cooled, multiple blade gang saws. Slabs are machined to give honed or polished surface, then cut down to tile formats. Further finishing methods are employed to give a variety of textured, aged, antiqued look surface and edges.

The geological complexity of stone results in natural variation from tile to tile, this is why all natural products exhibit their own individual characteristics. Therefore a degree of natural variation will inevitably occur in color and pattern from product to product. This is part of the beauty of natural stone. It is important that you view and understand the range of the stone, making sure enough quantity is ordered, including the overages. It is normal that each lot shipment might be different from one another. For an up to date representation, please call and order an actual sample then referring to a prints

LIMESTONE:

Limestone is a sedimentary rock, formed by the consolidation of sediments, seashells, marine organism and other organic substances.

TRAVERTINE:

Travertine is a type of limestone formed by the hot mineral springs, as a process of rapid precipitation of calcium carbonate. It usually comes in "Vein Cut" or Cross Cut". Vein cut tiles are cut so that the surface plane of the tile runs parallel to the long veins present, cross cut being cut perpendicular to those veins.

AVAILABILITY:

Products featured in this catalog are Altura's stocking program. Most items are normally stocked to a high level in both of our US warehouse locations Atlanta, GA and Cleveland, OH. If an item is back ordered, we provide an estimated lead time.

Besides the stocking program, Altura can generally offer custom size and finish of its materials as special order with a 6 to 12 weeks of lead time depending on the quantity and production schedule.

We reserve the right to discontinue items when conditions necessitate. New items are constantly being added to our line and featured in www.alturastoneandtile.com first.

INSTALLATION:

Stone tiles are often packed into wooden crates very tightly, are wet at the point of production. They will lighten as they dry and might have residue on surface as a result of various finishing processes completed during production.

Minor damage such as chipping on edge is often caused in packing or unpacking tiles and should be expected. It is accepted as normal practice to use these as cuts during the installation.

Tiles need to be dry prior to the installation so as to point out the ones with different tonalities which can be placed in less visible areas or used as cuts.

A dry layout and blending must be done prior to installation to the owners choice. This is to ensure the mix of different tonalities inherent in stone and an even distribution of the variations. Making sure to discuss your choice of blending with the installer fully and they are familiar with the product, is extremely important. If possible supervise the installation and confirm all products are inspected and approved.

MARBLE:

Marble is a metamorphic rock composed of recrystallized carbonate minerals. These minerals give marble a vast spectrum of colors and veining patterns generally contrasting to the base color

ONYX:

Onyx is deposited when the cold ground water surfaces and the dissolved calcite mineral precipitates in a band of layers. It has semi translucent properties.

SHIPPING:

All Job pack or pallet orders are carefully inspected, counted prior to shipping. Packing and securing your orders are done with careful attention to safety of shipment. Consignee should make a visual inspection before taking delivery and in the event of receiving a damaged product, a claim should be filed with the carrier immediately.

Care needs to be taken when unpacking the shipment. Any protective packing material must be removed carefully and tiles should be stacked and stored vertically on edge but not on a hard surface.

Tile Dimensions listed are nominal as slight variation in size and thickness occur with most stone and porcelain tiles.

All substrates that are to be tiled, whether floor or walls should always be properly prepared; they should be clean, flat, level and free from anything which alters the bonding.

Since natural stone is not waterproof by nature. In wet areas, showers. Waterproof membrane system should be installed prior to the installation. For tiling on direct concrete surface proper moisture barriers has to be ensured.

For a guideline of installation methods and grouting, please refer to:

SEALING: (NATURAL STONE, TERAZZO)

It is worth noting that all old stone flooring were never sealed and yet still look beautiful today. All stone is naturally porous to varying degrees, for modern day living and in order to improve stain resistance, we would recommend your stone to be sealed. For all the honed, tumbled and satin finishes, an impregnating sealer should be applied one coat prior to grouting, then 1-2 coats again after grouting with the grout joints also sealed. This procedure of sealing will penetrate deep into the pores to protect from water and oil based staining. After, a surface sealer application is also recommended further to form a protective layer, making it easier to clean daily dirt and grime from the stone.

As a part of regular maintenance, re-sealing may be required on a regular basis. Based upon the foot traffic and use, please refer to the manufacturer of sealer products for the frequency of the resealing process.

MAINTENANCE & CARE:

Like any surface, stone will require a degree of maintenance. Correctly sealed floors are the key to the minimal maintenance. Heavy traffic areas will require more maintenance than the others. Warm water mixed mildly with soap or a neutral detergent can be used to mop and floors should be regularly swept and vacuumed. Any abrasive or acidic household detergents should be avoided as they can remove the surface sealant or in extreme cases damage the stone.

When using any sealing, cleaning, maintenance or restoration product, always test on a small inconspicuous area to view the results, and as with other flooring products, stone tile surfaces occasionally require professional attention to restore, clean or maintain its natural look.

PRODUCT ADVISORY AND DISCLAIMER NOTES

- Onyx tiles and light/white color materials should be set with a white color thinset/mortar
- Some of our marbles noted above have full resin back. This is to help strengthen them when veins are particularly dominant or material overall has a crystallized body structure. Any natural open pit or seams on the finished surface is filled with resin as well. Tiles with full resin back must be set with quality high bond polymer or a water-free epoxy thin set adhesives. It is the installers discretion to decide in between the two methods
- Materials finished with Tumbled and Satin surfaces, reveal a lightly textured finish with cavities and seams and pits which is naturally inherent in stones like travertine, marble or limestone, this should be accepted as a characteristic not a flaw in materials.
- Materials that will be exposed to constant wet conditions such as showers must be sealed properly before the installations. Any water-proofing system should also be employed prior to the installation.
- Some degree of edge chipping can be expected in Limestones together with occasional surface pitting.
- Travertine is formed by the hot springs. The result of this formation is a honey-combed structure which, when finished has visible surface pits. Once the tiles are cut and calibrated, these pits are filled during the production with matching color cement or left unfilled if tumbled or satin finish is applied. Through general usage some of these fills may dislodge or previously unexposed holes may be visible. This is normal and the holes should be re-filled with suitable grout.
- Honed Finish stone tiles are widely offered in our collection. It is worth noting that each stone has a unique composition and hardness. Hard stones, react differently to the finishing process employed in production and might show partially finished look or very light swirl marks under the reflecting light. This is normal and should be considered natural.
- Should a dark color grout to be used with light color ceramic tiles, a grout release must be applied prior to the grouting as there could be crazing inherent on the surface which is common on all fired ceramics.
