Kitch.

General Cleaning Instructions for Kitch Products

To ensure the best long-term performance from Kitch's products, please follow the cleaning recommendations provided in this document.

Construction Clean

When your installation is complete it's time for that construction clean:

- 1. Remove the peel-coat (plastic) from your products. You will be met with some static so be careful. A bit of residue may be left behind, but we cover that below
- 2. Remove all the visible labels from your product. We use a timerelease label, so just start on a corner and carefully pull it back.
- 3. Use Methyl-Hydrate (Like Solvable) and a microfibre or cotton cloth to remove any residue. Be sure to flip and rotate the cloth so you are not smearing any residue in other areas of the panels. This is safe to use on all of the products we offer.

Everyday Cleaning

For everyday spills and messes like dirt, dust, and wax we recommend using water and mild soap with a microfiber cloth, or a melamine foam sponge. We recommend cleaning the laminate surfaces immediately after soiling by wiping them with a damp microfiber cloth or with the following recommended cleaning products.

Cleaning Agents to Avoid

We recommend avoiding all abrasive cleaning materials such as steel wool, scrubbing pads, and sponges with abrasive surfaces. Stay away from cream cleaners with abrasives and strong concentrated acids or alkalis. Avoid using paper towels to clean your cabinets as they can leave a residue and pilling. Please note that using any of these items can cause irreversible damage to your Kitch products and alter their properties.

Kitch.

Stubborn Stains

In cases where stains have dried, place a wet soft micro-fiber cloth with mild liquid soap on the incrusted area and allow 1 to 2 minutes to let soak. Remove the dissolved residue by wiping it with a wet soft cloth. If the residue cannot be completely removed with the above method, use a small amount of methyl-hydrate (like Solvable) and a microfiber cloth to remove the stain.

If you have additional questions regarding product maintenance feel free to give us a call at 780-669-9222 or email us at hello@mykitch.ca.