Made in the UK
using recycled plastic

Not suitable for children under 14 years old

Historical Note - The original instructions use for this model were created over 50 years ago. Over time the quality of print and detail deteriorated until they were no longer usable. With the help of the Kitmaster Club, Dapol obtained an original instruction sheet and, by using modern technology, were able to create a new set of instructions which faithfully replicated the original. Remarkably and without any forward planning, the instructions contained here on this sheet were finished on the 4th September 2010 exactly 70 years to the day which saw the end of the 'Battle of Britain'.

ASSEMBLY INSTRUCTIONS: It is recommended that the instructions and exploded view are studied and that the assembly is practiced before cementing together. Certain parts may need to be trimmed and may best be painted before cementing.

WARRANTY: Parts can get bent during transit or by prolonged storage. However misshapen parts can be straightened by placing them in hot water to soften the plastic and then carefully manipulating them back into shape by finger pressure. Please be careful that the water does not cause harm to skin or fingers. In the event of parts being broken or missing, then you MUST return to the place of purchase (the seller). The seller will replace your kit and return the original kit to Dapol under their agreed contractual terms. Do NOT return to Dapol.

Finally please note that Dapol does not keep individual parts for any kit.
