

CHACDOC CONFERENCE
2022
Zone of proximal development, Care and Social Sustainability in Children's Development
 Reflections from PhD students Oriana Ramunno and Monique Parkes,
 Conceptual PlayLab, Monash University

Reflections CHACDOC 2022: Opened up many ideas for consideration and questions that require further exploration...

- How do we take children's perspectives seriously?
- How do we establish a more care-full educational approach?
- How do we continue to develop these important pedagogical ideas?
- How do we continue to challenge our thinking theoretically and practical in early childhood education and care?

An international collaboration of exceptional thinkers and cultural-historical mavens.

The sharing of research highlighting approaches to childhood development in a cultural-historical context and creating opportunities for the continual exchange and refinement of ideas between researchers.

Critical discussions on some pertinent cultural-historical concepts in our contemporary environments.

Poster presentations as pathways to future research on cultural-historical perspectives in childhood development.

Opportunities to get to know each other academically, socially and personally in such a relaxed environment.
