

Comfort and Kindness for the Body and Spirit

NAGAI LEBEN

For your personality to shine.

If we could provide you with medical uniforms that fit so comfortably they feel like a part of you, how much more support would it be for your medical care? Nagaileben, Japan's largest manufacturer of medical uniforms, has entrusted its trust and pride backed by over 100 years of history to a next-generation brand that creates a new standard. Like nature around us, like a poem we suddenly sing to ourselves, we hope that both healthcare professionals and patients will be energized by wearing these products. Let your personality shine. A wide variety of designs and colors are available to respond to your individual needs. Although only a small number of products are introduced in this brochure, we have included two-dimensional codes at the end for websites that can be viewed in various countries. EARTH SONG®

Like the earth, like the trees.

Human life is revitalized just by being surrounded by nature, and we realize that human activities can be sustained by being part of a larger environment. Even before the call for the SDGs, Nagaileben respected the power of nature to relieve stress, and we have been committed to making medical uniforms that are close to the natural environment. High-performance medical uniforms, which serve as shields at medical treatment sites, can also be a presence that provides comfort to medical professionals and patients, just like the earth and trees. Our new project, Earth Song, is entrusted with the hope that the medical uniforms will be the very environment that connects lives. We have conducted repeated product testing, and after scientific verification to ensure that reuse does not degrade the functionality of the product, we deliver the comfort of being enveloped by nature. Like one of the trees that make up a forest, we hope to relieve the stress of everyone who is close to life. Medical uniforms that are comfortable like nature, and that can be trusted from the heart, while equipped with the best technology to meet the needs of the latest medical care. This is our proposal for the new era.

NEW SONG®

A new life.

The spread of COVID-19 has taken many freedoms from our lives and brought severe pressure. It has definitely been a difficult ordeal for everyone. However, this inconvenience in our lives has also given us many insights. Everyday spaces that we took for granted have given us peace of mind. A desire to connect through sincere trust and compassion rather than advantages and disadvantages. And the importance of mutually recognizing and accepting each other's values and differences in expression. At the same time, people are beginning to respect each other as important living beings. The singing voice of life, which has begun to echo through a peaceful world of coexistence, is the light of our future.
