Straight from the Amazon this hair mask is a winter SOS for your hair. This product didn't make my hair greasy which is always a worry for me so that was a welcome relief. I applied the mask a few time before my most recent hair cut and my hairdresser commented on the good condition despite my lack of up keep on my hair appointments. Guilty as charged. This really was a recuse remedy, I just wish it smelled nicer. The smell really put me off and therefore I couldn't see myself using this product very often.

From how to get celebrity looks for a fraction of the price, to her best beauty buys of the week and top advice on all things trendy, Corina will ensure you are looking red hot and your pals are green with envy.

It's a one-stop shop for the savvy and stylish.

G. Any suggestions of what to get my 'metrosexual' boyfriend for Valentine's Day? We live in opposite ends of the country and won't see each other for another two weeks but I want to surprise him anyway...incase he surprises me.

A. Well at this stage you've missed your window for something to arrive to him today, so cover yourself by sending him something special and if he DOES send you a present tell him his gift is 'in the post'!

You won't be lying, and if he decides to leave your Valentine's day present until he sees you, then you'll have gone that extra mile and scored bonus points - it's a win-win situation for you, now it sounds like he's into his clothes and skincare so check out YOURTANK.COM and send him some SAPIEN skincare for men.

I have the facial scrub pictured here but if you spend over €35 you have free delivery!
