CHARLOTTE CULOT

PRICELIST 2023

TIGMI

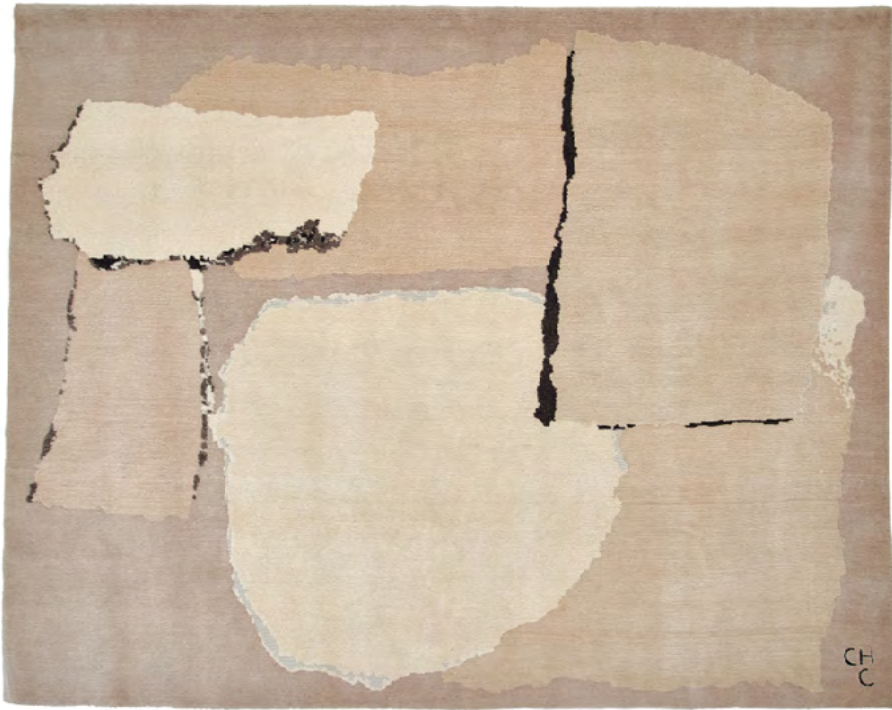

Charlotte Culot was born in Belgium to a family of artists, as her parents shared their creative worlds with her, intertwining it within their everyday life. Her path towards a creative career was more of a natural order, than of an obvious decision.

Culot is known for her expressive, abstractions in art, with work governed by connection as a founding principle. Passionate about materials and colours, she studied archeology and history of art, all which helped sharpen her artistic eye and inform her art in all its forms. She began painting in 1990 and using mainly brown Kraft paper to work on, she rediscovered the gouaches, pigments and pastels from her childhood. Her taste for materials and textures led her into the technique of collage, and over time, colour has become a major theme in her works.

Most recently, her art took on an intricate new dimension when it was presented in woven form with her woven tapestry collection 'Maison RHIZOMES.' The name RHIZOMES translates to 'mass of roots', with the collection rooted in natural connection, linking functionality with art.

Culot's intention is that the tapestries are considered as pieces of art, with the hope that they are adopted into homes as artworks rather than objects of decoration.

TIGMI are proud to exhibit this limited edition collection as an ongoing instalment of our Tigmi Art Series.

A series of woven art tapestries, presented in beautiful hand-spun Tibetan wool, Indian silk and linen by Belgian-born artist Charlotte Culot. Working with expert Nepalese weavers and established textile and colour specialist Perrine Blaise, the tapestries combine ethically sourced, natural materials and meticulously rendered dyes to translate Culot's artworks from the canvas into the third dimension.

The collection is available in limited editions, with these pieces available in our studio for immediate delivery.
