about Manduka

Manduka was founded in 1997 by Peter Sterios, a yoga instructor and architect, who started by selling yoga mats from his garage in California. His creation, the Black Mat PRO—a German-made, high-performance yoga mat—quickly became a favorite among practitioners and remains the cornerstone of our brand.

Today, Manduka is recognized as the world's most respected yoga brand, trusted by over 2 million customers and featured in over 4,000 yoga studios, hotels, gyms, and retreat spaces globally. Expanding beyond the iconic PRO Mat, we now offer a comprehensive range of high-performance yoga mats, towels, bags, props, and apparel for both men and women. Designed by yogis and trusted by teachers worldwide, our products are made to minimize environmental impact, using sustainable materials and processes that prioritize performance.

We have two offices: our Americas headquarters is based in Los Angeles, California, while Europe, Middle East, Africa and Asia Pacific is centrally run from Amsterdam, The Netherlands.
