PHONE CRADLE

As road users are well aware, there are numerous safety issues involved with using your mobile phone while driving, along with major penalties including loss of demerit points and fines.

In fact, in NSW you are only legally allowed to make a call or receive a call on your mobile phone if the phone is fixed in a secure mounting or the car has a hands-free device.

If the police do catch you driving whilst on the phone, you face a fine of $304 and three demerit points and if it's in a school zone the fine is increased to $405 and four demerit points.

To keep drivers safe and legal, Strike, one of the leading providers of Bluetooth car technology, has produced an advanced mobile phone cradle, the Alpha Cradle.

The Strike Alpha Cradle is compliant with road laws; engineered, designed and manufactured in Australia and is compatible with virtually any Bluetooth car kits.

The cradle will allow you to keep your phone battery going strong all day with a 2 Amp output, making it a superior cradle phone charger.

It also comes with voltage spike protection to keep you safe while charging. Users will be able to stay in touch, even in rural areas, as the Alpha cradle can be linked to an external antenna through its unique FME male connector.

Considering how often people upgrade their phones, the Strike Alpha Cradle has made life a little easier by designing the cradle so that the existing mount can be used with any mobile phone upgrade, all you'll need is a new cradle component.

Which means you won't have to worry about the hassle of installing a new cradle.

For android users the Alpha Cradle is NFC (Near Field Communication) compatible, allowing you to control the phone even when it's docked in the cradle.

The Strike Alpha Cradle allows mobile phone owners to choose how they set up their cradle with multiple mounting options.

The cradle also comes with a three year unlimited kilometre warranty so that users can stay connected for years to come.

If you'd like to get your hands on one of these products, The Alpha Cradle range is now available at the Penrith Telstra Store.

West Life has one iPhone 5 Strike Alpha Cradle and one Samsung Galaxy S5 Strike Alpha Cradle to giveaway.
