

Undertaking

The Wellness Club (a brand of Aspiration Consultants) operates as an aggregator platform, facilitating access to a diverse range of health and wellness services and products. It is important to clarify that we do not directly provide any of these services or products ourselves. Instead, we connect users with reputable providers in the health and wellness industry.

As an aggregator, we aim to streamline the process of finding and accessing health and wellness resources, offering convenience and accessibility to our users. However, it is essential to understand that we act solely as an intermediary platform and do not have control over the quality, accuracy, or suitability of the services or products offered by third-party providers.

While we strive to partner with trusted and reputable providers, we cannot guarantee the performance, effectiveness, or safety of the services or products listed on our platform. Users are encouraged to conduct their own research, verify the credentials of providers, and exercise discretion when engaging with any services or products found through our platform.

Furthermore, The Wellness Club assumes no liability for any outcomes, damages, or issues arising from interactions with third-party providers or the use of their services or products. Users acknowledge that their engagement with third-party providers is at their own discretion and risk.

By using our platform, users agree to these terms and acknowledge that The Wellness Club is not responsible for any liabilities associated with the services or products provided by third-party providers.
