Paul Kempisty is a New York State licensed Acupuncturist and a Board certified Herbalist. He runs a private practice in downtown Manhattan where patients seek treatment of common ailments, gynecology, and fertility as well as care during and after orthodox cancer treatments.

Paul is known for his "Radiant Health" approach, where he not only tackles acupuncture needs but views his clients in a more holistic approach through both acupuncture and herbal medicines. In addition, he has studied all levels of Reiki, and has been practicing and teaching Reiki for over 10 years. To top off his multi-pronged approach, he incorporates aromatherapy into many acupuncture and Reiki sessions, having also lectured on the use of essential oils and Aromatherapy in Chinese Medicine.

His training in Traditional Chinese Medicine was received both in the United States and the People's Republic of China: Graduating from Pacific College of Oriental Medicine in New York, a four year Master of Science program, and continuing in China with special studies in oncology and gynecology. Upon returning to the US, Paul worked closely with western medical oncologists/hematologists providing complementary health care counseling within a western chemotherapy based clinic.

Pricing starts at $180/session for an initial consultation and acupuncture appointment, while follow-up appointments are $120/session. Reiki treatments start at $150/session. House calls are available for $300/session.
