

The IONIC Thermacore Quad™ is a premium 4 way super stretch two piece thermal garment. Manufactured using super stretch Polytherm™ twin layer fleece system that creates an extremely efficient thermal barrier, with the added comfort of a “body hugging” fit. The twin layer construction is extremely thermal efficient and provides an excellent “wicking system” removing moisture away from the skin, even when wet. The two piece design means that you can either wear the salopette on its own or as a two piece system to increase the thermal performance of the garment, depending on the climate. It is designed so that it can be worn either directly onto the skin or in conjunction with a base layer system, whichever option the user prefers.
