Turn Your Charcoal Grill Into A Smoker!

Directions:

Every grill design is different, but if you follow these instructions you can quickly and easily turn your charcoal grill into a homemade smoker!

Start off by placing a pile of unlit charcoal to one side of the grill. You will be doing 2-zone cooking, so it is important to only bank the charcoal against one side of the grill. On the other side of the grill, place a water pan. If you have enough space on the grill racks, place another water pan directly above the coals. This will help add moisture to the smoke.

When you are ready to begin, place lit charcoals on top of your unlit charcoal pile. Add your wood chips or wood chunks on top of the lit charcoal (We recommend using fruitwoods!). Place your meat or vegetables over top of the water pan opposite of the charcoal and wood pile. Finally, open an exhaust damper on the side of the grill with the meat. If you have multiple exhaust dampers, make sure only the dampers near the meat are open. This controls the air flow and draws the smoke over the meat.
