Generally, brewers yeast is recommended by holistic vets as a supplement for dogs to help strengthen their immune systems and as a common, natural remedy for fleas. Specifically, it is recommended for the following:

TO REPEL
ALL BITING INSECTS

Researchers are uncertain why brewers yeast is effective at keeping biting insects away. However, many pet owners find that daily use of brewers yeast does keep fleas, ticks, mosquitos & biting flies from bothering their pet. Some believe it is the odor imparted by daily use of the strong yeast. Others feel that the yeast may make the blood taste unusual because of the sulfur compounds it contains which drive the biting pests away.

Brewers yeast is rich in antioxidants. Pet owners supplying their pet with daily brewers yeast report their dog's coat is shinier and their skin is healthier. Dogs getting sufficient quantities of brewers yeast daily experience less itchy, dry skin and less shedding.

TO IMPROVE YOUR DOG'S COAT

TO LOWER STRESS LEVELS

Dogs that suffer from separation anxiety and other stress issues benefit from daily brewers yeast. During moments of stress, a mammal's body burns through B vitamins quickly. B vitamins help with nerve function and stress management. Because brewers yeast is rich in B vitamins, it is an essential supplement for high stress animals. It restores the B vitamin levels that are being used up rapidly. By having the proper balance of B vitamins, the brain doesn't signal the rest of the body to release hormones like adrenaline and epinephrine that trigger many feelings of anxiety.
