

PERSPECTIVE

Bay Area Artist's Association • July, 2023 • Volume 33 • Issue 7

First of all, I am very disappointed that I missed the June 18th program. I was really looking forward to playing with acrylic pour, but this year I have family business to take care of and this time couldn't work around our BAAA meeting.

So, I think I will share with you some information on my favorite and inspirational artist. This time of year, we love to see the new fawns being born and their moms bringing them by our house almost on a daily basis. So therefore, I am inspired by Robert Bateman. Wildlife Art is my true passion and a quote by Roger Tory Peterson says it all "If I could paint like another wildlife artist it would be Robert Bateman."

My first exposure to Robert's work was on a vacation back in 2000. My husband and I went into the Natural Museum of Wildlife Art in Jackson Hole, Wy. As we were enjoying the art, I stopped in front of a huge full-size painting of a bison. The detail was so precise! I was in awe of this marvelous life size painting and looked at the signature and it was Robert Bateman. I was hooked right there.

Roger Tory Peterson writes in the book "The Art of Robert Bateman" text by Ramsey Derry and introduction by Roger Tory Peterson that Robert Bateman was born in Toronto, Canada in 1930. He was painting and birdwatching by the time he was twelve. Through the Royal Ontario Museum, he developed his skills as a naturalist. He began his career teaching geography and art, traveling extensively and painting constantly. He demonstrated great expertise as a scientific illustrator but also painted in impressionist and abstract styles. Returning to a realistic style and to wildlife subjects in 1964, he soon became recognized as a rare and exciting talent, with sold-out exhibitions in Great Britain, the United States and Canada. He has been the subject of two films and many magazine articles in such periodicals as Audubon Magazine and American Artist.

Robert is now 93 years old, lives in Toronto, Canada and still paints when he can.

Happy painting everyone!

Acrylic Pour Painting with Rhonnie Rego

On Sunday June 18th, BAAA artist members and friends were treated to a lively demonstration by Rhonnie Rego, who invented her own approach to the process of acrylic pouring, and has used it in her work as a mental health advocate. Sarita Southgate assisted with the setup of materials, while Shinan Barclay gave a heartfelt introduction, describing the first time she encountered Rhonnie's work, who happens to be a neighbor, and which she found to be akin to having a local Vincent Van Gogh!

Rhonnie's hands on demo started with a suggestion that all participants use the workshop as a means to play, and eliminate any worries or concerns, allowing the spontaneity of the process to emotionally refresh our minds. She then proceeded to show everyone several different ways to use the fluid acrylics, enhanced with products such as Floetrol, to improve the fluidity and mixing of the colors and to create "cells" in the surface of the paint. We all started out by mixing our separate colors in small cups or containers, to be able to pour them out onto our horizontal canvases.

After watching Rhonnie demonstrate with her first piece, which was stunning, we all jumped into the process and the results were so inspiring! The refreshments for the gathering were provided by Clara (add last name?!?), whose layout of snacks and desserts and fresh flowers was a visual feast for the eyes and the taste buds!

Big thank you to Rhonnie for giving us all the space to play and clear our minds!

BAAA Featured Artist Judy Deboling

Judy moved to Coos Bay with her family from Eugene and Springfield in 1967. Between 1968 and 1969 she and her husband traded their Springfield home for a home and property seven miles south of Bandon, OR. where they had a myrtlewood shop built.

Judy had a friend that was an artist who taught her a lot of the rules to make a painting a success. She loves working with watercolor. She painted on myrtlewood slabs. She used the wood's grain as part of the painting. During those two years she painted a lot of slabs and they sold very well. Her subjects were birds, wild animals, ducks and local landscapes such as Facerock etc. She did that for about three years then they sold their property and moved back to Coos Bay.

In 1970 Judy had her third child, a boy. Her time then was spent taking care of her home and children. In 1975 she went to work for Safeway as a checker, working for 29 years then retiring in 2004. After retiring she was able to travel and have some fun. Somewhere around 2008 she got back to painting working mostly in watercolor.

Judy loves her photography! It helps her a lot with her artwork too. She has taken so many beautiful photos of the area and in her travels. She plans to get back to her painting before long. In 2010 she began getting a lot more grandchildren and really got side-tracked from her painting!

"We are lucky there is so much beauty in our area."

Judy is mostly self-taught.

ARTIST'S LOFT

Limberly Wurster is Guest Artist at the Artist Loft Gallery

July 5th through August 26th

Kimberly's love for wildlife is evident in her beautiful, carefully rendered images of birds and sea creatures in their natural settings.

We invite you to a reception for Kimberly on Saturday, July 22nd from 2-4pm.

Kimberly's Bio:

I was born in southwestern Montana into a musical family and studied cello at the University of Montana. For several years, my husband Scott and I developed wildlife refuges, turning unproductive ranch wetlands into prime habitat for waterfowl and trout. We then moved to the Oregon Coast in 1995 where I shifted my artistic focus to painting fine art. I enjoy painting a variety of subjects including landscapes, but have a particular fondness for birds and wildlife. Depicting the habitat in which my subjects are found is a source of great joy for me. I find everything from moss, lichen and tree bark to beach and ocean scenes fascinating and seek opportunities to include them in my work. When watching a bird or any form of wildlife, not only function but thrive in an intact environment, I feel a tremendous sense of harmony. I welcome you into my world as an artist, to share my appreciation of the amazing and beautiful world in which we live.

ART ON THE BAY

Tyson's Galactic Art

Tyson Wolfe will be the featured artist at:

Gallery by The Bay Saturday, July 1st, 6 - 7:30pm
2100 Union Street. North Bend, OR

He will be presenting his ideas of what outer space looks like closely resembling the photos being sent back to us by the Webb Telescope.

Tyson was born on planet Earth...in the town of Woodland, California but his art makes one wonder if these were places he's seen or inhabited before his arrival on "the blue planet", affectionately named by the astronauts.

In creating his art he uses various colors of paint overlaid upon sheets of clear glass then allowed to dry. He often uses more than one pane and the resultant images may have many layers. Ordinary kitchen bowls are painted around leaving the replica of planets floating in space. The "other worldly" effect may show worlds in the creative form with brilliant reds and yellows on the black background of outer space.

Through the years the artist has looked to Neil De Grosse Tyson for inspiration and clarification of the forming of our planet and the images our imaginations could conjecture. There was the Hubble telescope in the 1990's to assist expanding those visions.

With the advent of the Webb Space Telescope probing even further into those unknown depths of space and revealing more of what is there has given all artists a new spectrum of creating possibilities.

As you view Tyson's work, create your own celestial imaginings, open yourself to what may surprise you...or cause you to remember another time when maybe... you were there.

The gallery is located at 2100 Union Street on the ground floor of Unity Spiritual Center in North Bend. Dulcimerist Robert Cribbins will present special music. Refreshments.
