A note from the publisher

Dear Reader,

This fall, Second Story has many excellent books for young people heading into the classroom. It's a time for fun and optimism, for looking forward to learning, inspiration, and days with friends. Sadly, along with the fear and disruption the pandemic has brought, the evils of hate have come out of the shadows. Incidents of racism against many communities, anti-Semitism, ableism, and anti-LGBTQ+ violence have dramatically increased in schools. Yes, children are drawing swastikas in classrooms, teachers of color are being threatened, and incidents of Islamophobia and all forms of bullying have found a place in the lives of our youth.

Educators and parents are fighting back. And more than ever, publishers are creating literature for young people that addresses issues of hate. Writers from many communities are sharing stories and experiences that celebrate our differences while exploring the consequences of hate, and helping young readers understand the suffering it causes for each of us, as well as for our friends, classmates, and neighbors.

In this vein, our fall list is filled with stories that combat prejudice with love, acceptance, and celebration. From Phoenix Gets Greater, a stunning picture book by a mother and her Two Spirit son, to the fourth installment in the Mighty Muskrats Mystery Series, to an inspiring YA nonfiction that profiles some lesser-known heroines of the Holocaust. Our adult program is perfectly complementary: Fractured, a memoir by Susan Mockler, explores the challenges that come with a sudden, life-changing physical disability, and award-winning author Karin Wells' new book, More Than a Footnote, highlights the accomplishments of some incredible women trailblazers. To top it off, Ann Lambert delivers another Russell & Leduc mystery that thrills as it challenges societal expectations.

Take a look—we're sure you'll find this season as compelling as ever.

WRITTEN BY MARTY WILSON-TRUDEAU,
WITH PHOENIX WILSON
ILLUSTRATED BY MEGAN KYAK-MONTEITH

A powerful story about the importance of family acceptance.

Phoenix loves to play with dolls and marvel at pretty fabrics. Most of all, he loves to dance—ballet, Pow Wow dancing, or just swirling and twirling around his house. Sometimes Phoenix gets picked on and he struggles with feeling different, but his mom and brother are proud of him. With their help, Phoenix learns about Two Spirit/Niizh Manidoowag people in Anishinaabe culture and just how special he is.

Based on the childhood experiences of her son, Phoenix, Marty Wilson-Trudeau demonstrates the difference that a loving and supportive family can make.

MARTY WILSON-TRUDEAU is an Anishinaabe Kwe writer originally from M'Chigeeng, Ontario, and teaches drama at St. Charles College in Sudbury, Ontario. She is a mother to two wonderful sons, Brandan and Phoenix Wilson.

PHOENIX WILSON is an Anishinaabe actor and dancer and is very proud of who he is. He can be seen in such projects as Longmire, Letterkenny, and the critically acclaimed movie Wild Indian.

MEGAN KYAK-MONTEITH, from Pond Inlet, Nunavut, is an Inuk illustrator and painter. Graduating from NSCAD University in 2019, she currently lives and works in Halifax, Nova Scotia. In her illustrative projects, she works most often with Indigenous stories.

Nonna and the Girls Next Door

WRITTEN BY GIANNA PATRIARCA ILLUSTRATED BY ELLIE ARSCOTT

The girls next door have everything....

They have a dog named Jake, a cat named Paws, a turtle, and a tree house. Most of all, the girls next door have each other. But there is one thing that they don't have and it might be the most special thing of all! This heartwarming story emphasizes the bond between grandmothers and grandchildren.

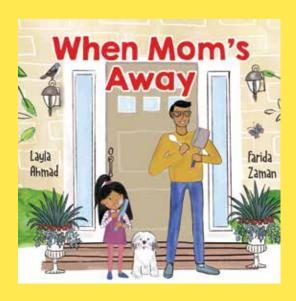

Written by prize-winning writer Gianna Patriarca, Nonna and the Girls Next Door is a charming story dotted with Italian cultural touchstones like the baking of biscotti. The universal experience of overcoming envy and coming to appreciate our own situation combined with nostalgic illustrations by Ellie Arscott make this a timeless classic.

GIANNA PATRIARCA is an award-winning author of 11 books, poetry, and short fiction. Her first book, Italian Women and Other Tragedies, is in its 4th printing and was runner-up for the Milton Acorn People's Poetry Award. Her work is extensively anthologized and adapted for screen. Gianna lives in Toronto.

ELLIE ARSCOTT grew up in a small Ontario town that three generations of "Nonnas" before her also called home. Ellie graduated from Sheridan College in Interpretive Illustration. Her illustration debut, Night Walk, was awarded an SCBWI Canada East Crystal Kite. Ellie lives in Toronto's east end with her family.

TA-DA!

A Story of Egg Donation

WRITTEN BY ELLA KAY
ILLUSTRATED BY FARIDA ZAMAN

Life was great, but we asked, "What could make it better?" ...and the answer was you!

A curious little girl loves to ask questions. Most of all, she loves to hear how she was made with the help of an egg donor! A quirky, funny, and celebratory story that teaches kids about one of the many ways babies join a family.

Inspired by the author's own experiences, this joyful book is a great way to introduce kids to the concept of egg donation. Debut author Ella Kay's simple but emotive language, accompanied by Farida Zaman's bright illustrations, focuses on parents' love for their child and affirms that they're the perfect addition to their family.

ELLA KAY is the mother of two small children and lives in Toronto, Canada. TA-DA! is her first children's book. She wrote it to tell her children the story of "how" they were made.

FARIDA ZAMAN is the author of I Want to Be...A Gutsy Girls' ABC and the illustrator of many children's books, including When Mom's Away, which she co-created with her daughter. She works from her home studio in Toronto.

Hidden on the High Wire

WRITTEN BY KATHY KACER

In the summer of 1941, Irene must perform the most perilous balancing act of her life....

Irene grew up traveling around Germany with her family's circus, surrounded by her loved ones and thrilling the crowds with her performance on the high wire...until one day, the audience boos. The Lorch family is Jewish, and the increasing power of Adolf Hitler's Nazis has put them all in grave danger.

When the circus is forced to shut down and Irene's father is taken away, Irene and her mother must go into hiding with another circus. Every day is a frightening new kind of balancing act, caught between the desire to perform and the need to hide even in plain sight.

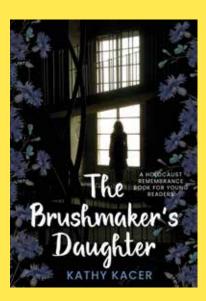

KATHY KACER'S books have won a number of awards, including the Silver Birch and the Jewish Book Award. A former psychologist, Kathy now travels the globe speaking to children and adults about the importance of keeping the memory of the Holocaust alive. Kathy lives in Toronto with her family.

The Case of the Rigged Race

The Mighty Muskrats are back with a chilly new mystery!

Windy Lake First Nation is hosting the annual Trapper's Festival, and the four Mighty Muskrats are excited about the dogsled races and the chance to visit with family and friends from far and wide. But during the Teen Dogsled Race, the lead dog is the victim of a frightening accident that may be more than it seems.

Between mysterious strangers seen lurking by the trail and a loud group of animal rights protestors, the Muskrats have a lot of suspects. Despite the chill of winter, the case is heating up for Sam, Otter, Atim, and Chickadee!

MICHAEL HUTCHINSON is Swampy Cree from the Treaty 5 area and a member of the Misipawistik Cree Nation. He wrote the Mighty Muskrats Mystery Series to educate young Canadians, build pride in First Nation and impoverished youth, and create a better Canadian and First Nations relationship.

"Chickadee's rez-tech savvy pairs well with her cousin Otter's bushcraft skills, and, along with Atim's brawn and brother Samuel's leadership, the four make a fine team. From Cree author Hutchinson, an Indigenous version of the Hardy Boys full of rez humor."

Heroines, Rescuers, Rabbis, Spies Unsung Women of the Holocaust

WRITTEN BY SARAH SILBERSTEIN SWARTZ

A British intelligence officer. A Partisan photographer. A German rabbi. A Polish nurse.

Discover nine ordinary women who took extraordinary measures to save lives during the Holocaust—resisting tyranny and terror while undercover or in hiding, in ghettos and concentration camps, in forests, and in exile.

With compassion and admiration, author Sarah Silberstein Swartz tells true stories of women who stood up for themselves and others in dangerous times. Overlooked by history, they leapt from fear to action with a bravery that deserves recognition.

SARAH SILBERSTEIN SWARTZ, daughter of Jewish Polish Holocaust survivors, was born in post-war Berlin, Germany. She is a writer and award-winning editor, specializing in women's studies and Holocaust literature. Research Associate at the Hadassah-Brandeis Institute at Brandeis University, she lives in Boston with her wife and cat, and near her three grandsons.

Fractured a memoir

WRITTEN BY SUSAN MOCKLER

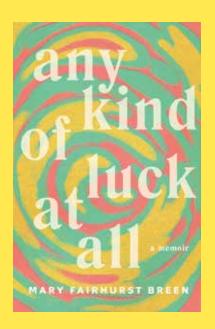

"Somehow it was easier to be inside the injury. Not to see what was visible on the outside. I knew I was still here."

A collision with a moose on a dark highway left Susan Mockler with an incomplete spinal injury, suddenly compromising her ability to walk and to care for herself. She spent months in a rehabilitation facility learning how to adjust to her new reality, and though her body partially recovered, every aspect of her life changed.

Fractured is a compelling illumination of the challenges of acquired disability and the ways in which people with disabilities are sidelined and infantilized. Mockler, a psychotherapist, speaks with frank honesty about her family and friends' reactions to her injury, and the hard-won lessons that she and those around her learned from her experience.

SUSAN MOCKLER is a disabled writer living in Kingston, Ontario. Her stories and essays have been published in magazines across Canada and the US. Fractured: a memoir is her first book.

More Than a Footnote Canadian Women You Should Know

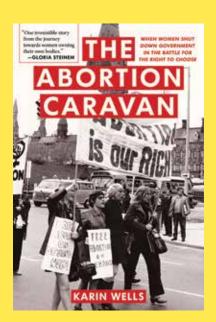

WRITTEN BY KARIN WELLS

"We have told only half the stories of how our world was shaped."

There are women throughout Canada's history who when faced with a locked door, have looked for a key—or a battering ram. Award-winning writer Karin Wells tells the stories of women like the fierce and iconoclastic Mina Benson Hubbard, who finished the mission to map northern Labrador that had killed her explorer husband, and Vera Peters, MD, who revolutionized treatments for Hodgkins lymphoma and breast cancer. Or Margaret Keiko Lyons—exiled to the prairies during WWII as part of Canada's racist policies towards Japanese Canadians, she went on to lead a radio revolution in the 1970s. And have you heard of Charlotte Small, a Métis woman who canoed and trekked 48,000 km-more than three times further than the American explorers Lewis and Clark—and had five babies along the way? Some were outrageous, some were unassuming, most were not polite, but they all ignored the voices that said women could not paddle a canoe, program a computer, understand the universe, or cure a disease.

KARIN WELLS was born in the UK, grew up in BC, and now lives in southwest Ontario. She is best known as a CBC radio-documentary maker and is a three-time recipient of the Canadian Association of Journalist documentary award. Her work has been heard on radio networks around the world and has been recognized by the United Nations. Wells worked—briefly—as a line worker in a pea factory, a schoolteacher, and an actor. She is also a lawyer and in 2011 was inducted into the University of Ottawa's Common Law Honour Society.
