The Secret of Gabi's Dresser

Author: Kathy Kacer

Summary

This historical fiction novel for Grades 4–8 tells the story of Gabi Kohn and her family living in Czechoslovakia in the 1940s. As one of several Jewish families living in their small village, Gabi and her parents are an essential part of the community. But everything begins to change as the German army moves into other countries nearby. First, Gabi notices a change in people's attitudes towards herself and her Jewish friends. Then more and more restrictions are passed that control what Jewish people are able to do. Gabi and her family begin to fear for their safety. Will they stay or will they leave? What is the secret of Gabi's dresser?

About the Author

Kathy Kacer is an award-winning author who has written more than twenty books that focus on stories of the Holocaust. Her work includes picture books, historical fiction, and nonfiction writing. As a child of Holocaust survivors, Kathy Kacer is a passionate advocate for sharing Holocaust stories and has claimed that she feels personally responsible for collecting stories and passing them on to the next generation. In the book Teaching Tough Topics by Larry Swartz, Kathy Kacer writes: "I think that the lessons we can learn—lessons about hatred and power, but also lessons about compassion, strength, and selflessness are lessons for the ages. Remember this: Every time you remember the history, and every time you talk about it, you are honouring someone who lived and possibly perished during that time. You are giving meaning to their lives. And that is a remarkable thing" (2020, p. 69).

Learning Opportunities

Character Education

1. Character Traits: How do the characters in the story show courage and perseverance?
2. Personal Relationships: Do the relationships between the characters in the novel change? How do the characters handle conflict?

Literacy

1. Genre: What is historical fiction? What are the key elements of the genre?
2. Setting: What are some elements that authors use to help readers visualize unfamiliar settings? Is a specific setting always an essential part of a story?
3. Reading Strategies: What prior knowledge (schema) do you have about Czechoslovakia and the Holocaust? How can that knowledge help you understand the story and/or the characters?

Social Studies

1. Geography: Where is Czechoslovakia? What is the climate and terrain like there? What countries are now found where Czechoslovakia used to be?
2. Cultures and Celebrations: What are some of the Sabbath traditions for the family in this story? Does your family have any similar traditions or foods?
3. Holocaust Education: What countries were invaded or controlled by Nazi Germany during World War II? What happened to Jewish people in those areas during the war? Why did so many people go along with the mistreatment of their Jewish neighbours?

Before Reading

The following discussion prompts offer a brief introduction to the setting and context of the book and can help gauge your students' understanding and familiarity with the Holocaust.

Ask students what they know about the Holocaust. What names, events, or places come to mind when they hear that term? (Responses could include Germany, Hitler, Anne Frank, gas chambers, Schindler's List, etc.). Show some images (in print or digitally) from the Holocaust to evoke questions and discussion.

Pictures with descriptions can be found at this website: <https://phdn.org/histgen/schmitz/indexeng.html>

Help establish the setting by discussing Czechoslovakia—where it is in the world, what the geography and climate is like, what countries are nearby, etc. This can also help orient the students when other countries, such as Poland, are mentioned.

A discussion of the Holocaust, especially touching on the fact that some horrible things happened, might be prudent before reading the story. Knowing if events in the story might remind students of similar events in their own lives or events they've heard of in their family history, would be helpful for you to be aware of.

Literacy Extension Activities

The following list offers suggestions for activities that can be used to expand student learning and application of concepts in the book. These activities can be done at any point while reading the book.

1. If you had to leave your home and could only take a few things with you, what would you take? Write a list of ten things you would take.
 - Have students start with those ten things and then reduce to five and then two items. Students could draw or create a collage of photos or write short descriptions of their items and share with the class.
2. What do you imagine the characters look like? Draw a portrait of one or more characters based on their description in the book.
3. How is the story of The Secret of Gabi's Dresser similar to another story you have read? Think about stories where the characters face hard times, feel frightened, or must leave their homes.
 - If students or teachers are interested in more stories about this subject, see the Further Reading section at the end of this guide or visit: <https://secondstorypress.ca/holocaust-remembrance-series>
4. Do you know any stories about your family's history? Write down what you can remember.

Research Questions

Make a list of questions together with the students that can stay accessible and visible in the classroom on chart paper, a whiteboard, a Google document, a jam board, Padlet, or another learning platform. Or have students, independently or in groups, choose a question to research and share their new learning in the form of a poster, slideshow, booklet, etc. Below are some sample research questions:

1. Many people in countries across Europe helped Jewish families hide and escape persecution. These individuals were called rescuers. Who were some of the rescuers?
2. What were some of the factors that led to the persecution of Jewish people across Europe?
