Assessment Framework

A conceptual map of relevant data (information) to be collected

Working with the Assessment Framework

The Assessment Framework provides a map for assessing the needs of children

- The Child's Developmental Needs Domain of the Assessment triangle maps Strengths and Impairment in Development
- The Parenting Capacity Domain is concerned with Attributability
- Where there is no observable or measurable impairment, the Parenting Capacity and Family and Environmental Factors Domains are relevant to the Likelihood of Impairment

Note that the nature of any impairments is also relevant to attributability e.g. Autism is genetic, Cerebral Palsy is congenital in most instances.

The Family Assessment: origins, research and theory

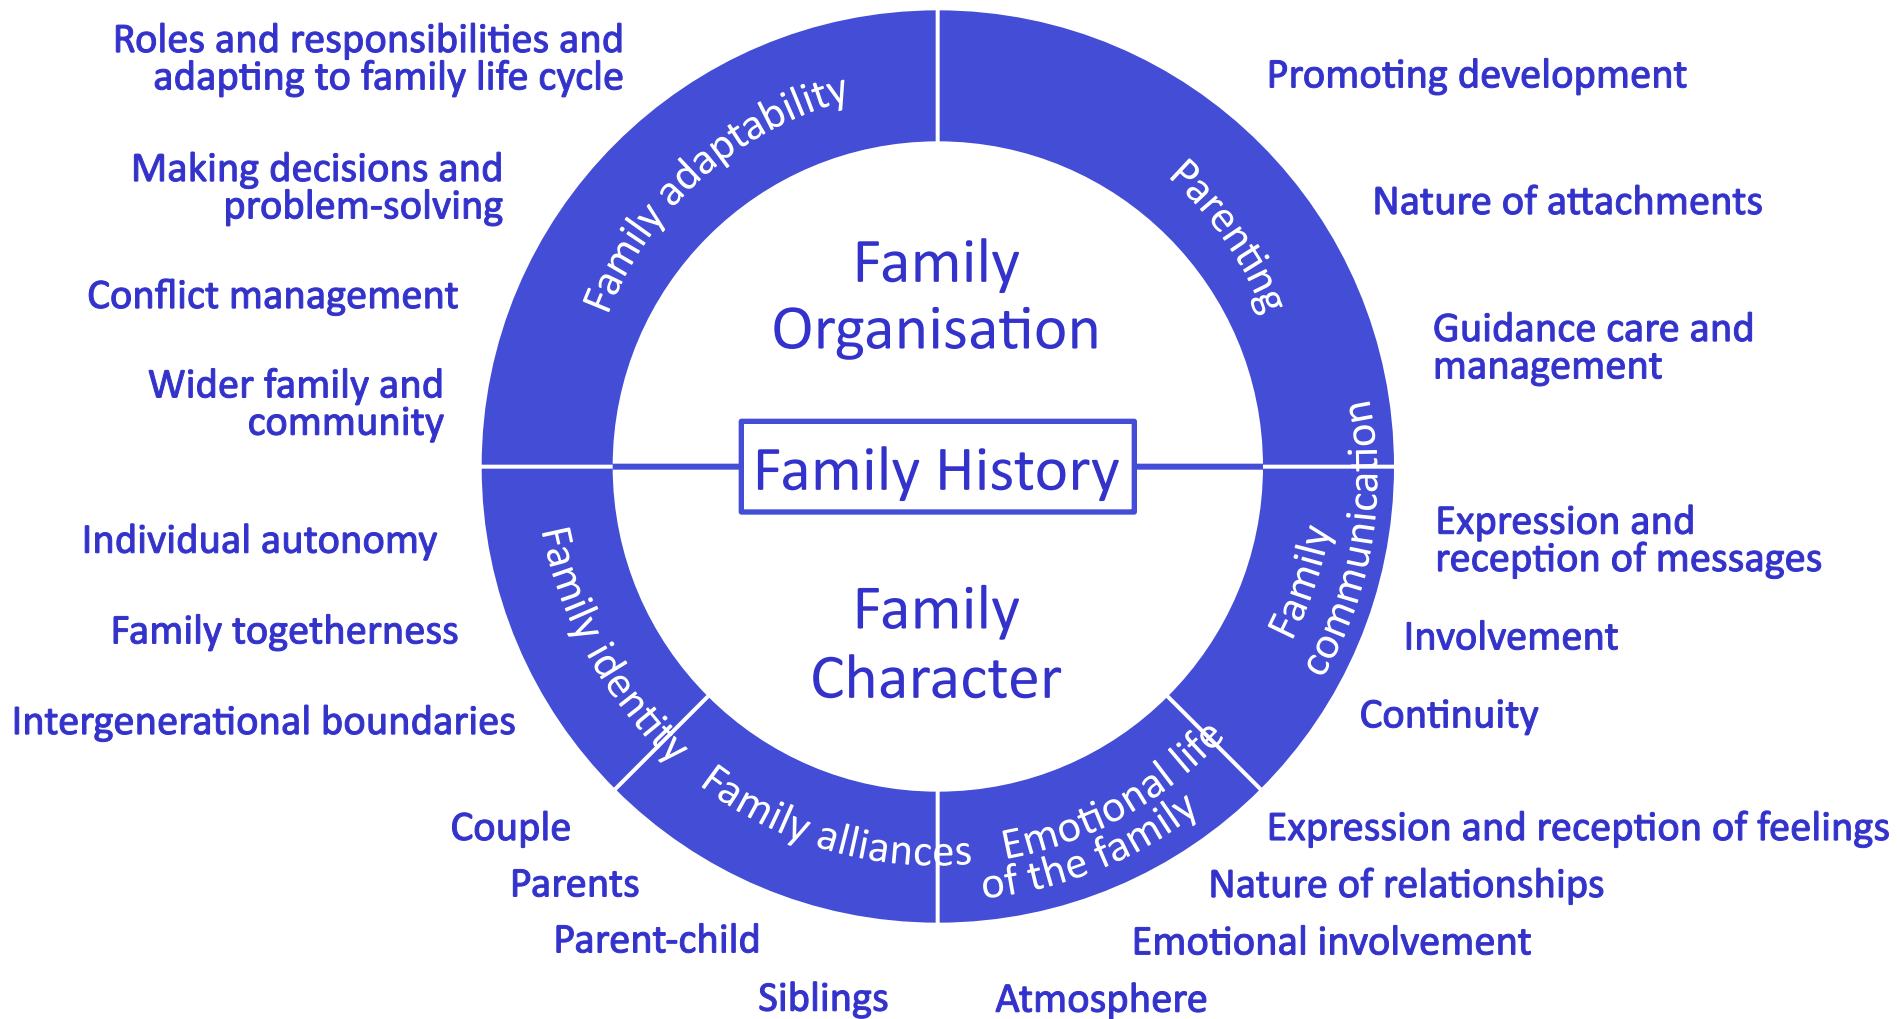

- Great Ormond Street Children's Hospital – research and work with families
- Systems Theory and Family Therapy (inter-related systems)
- Focal Family Therapy (impact of history on parenting)
- Trauma-Organised Family Systems (impact of trauma)
- Attachment Theory (capacity to provide a secure base)

Principles underpinning the Family Assessment

The Family Assessment follows the same principles as the Assessment Framework. Further principles include always considering the following when assessing families:

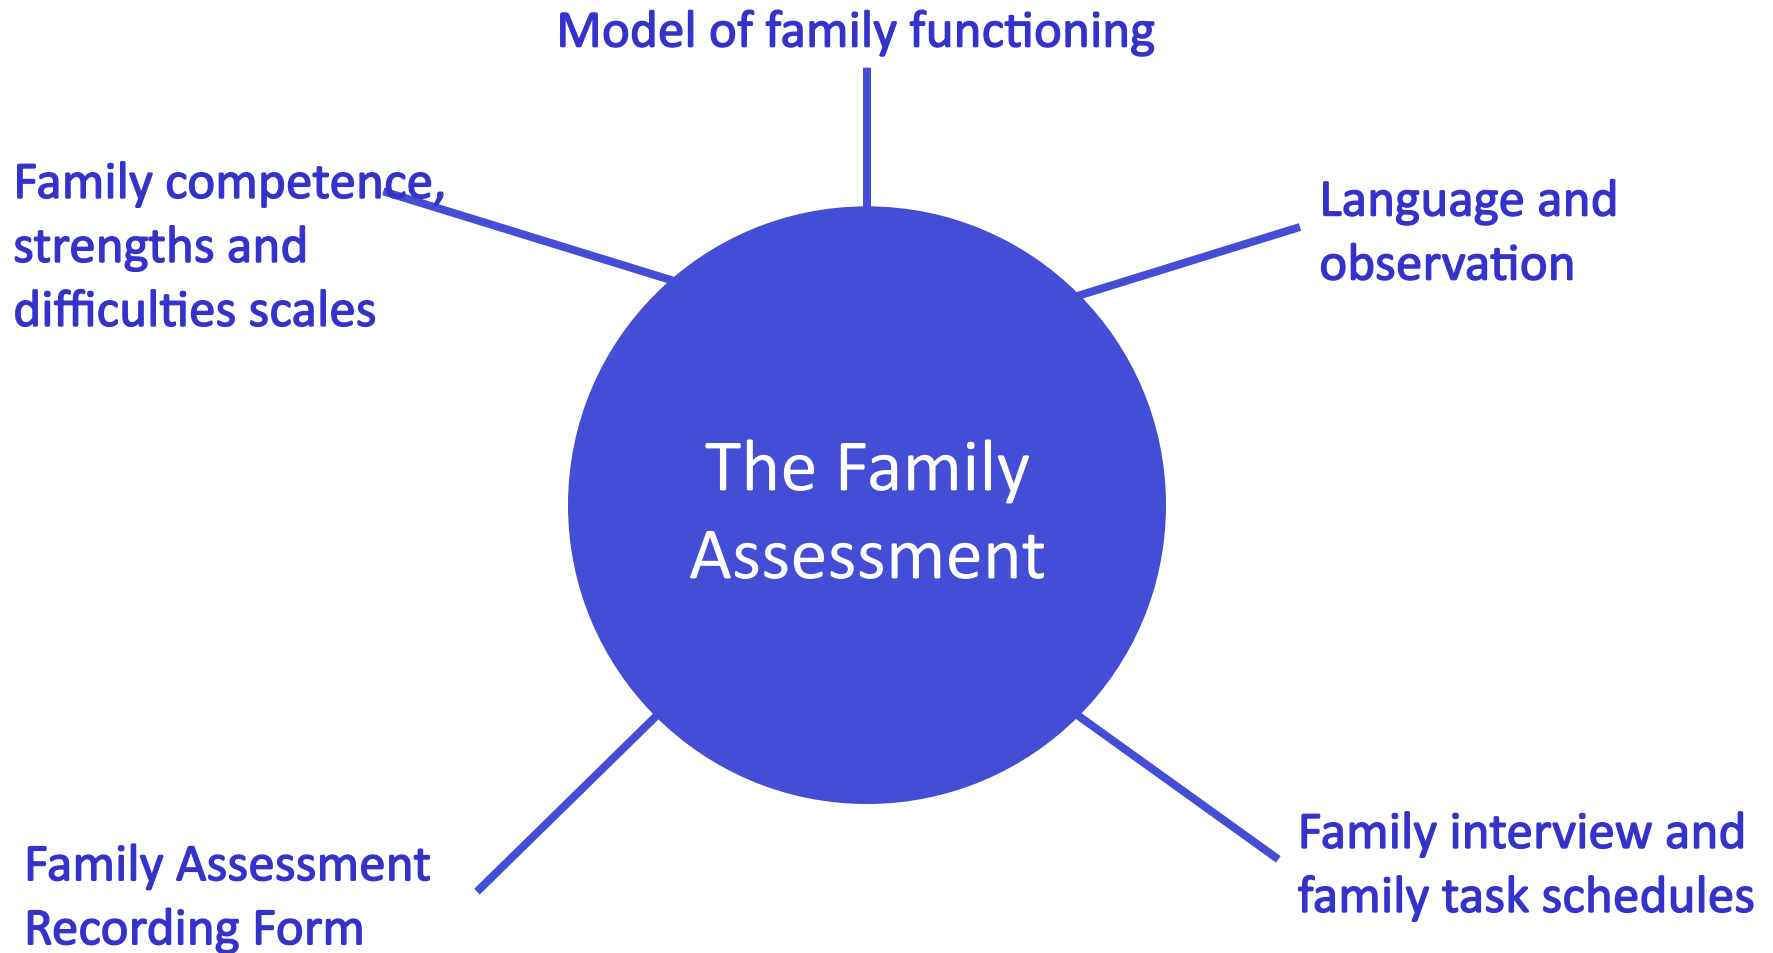

- The Family as a System
- Uniqueness
- Diversity
- Disadvantage
- Discrimination
- Strengths as well as difficulties
- Process of assessment as ‘therapeutic’ as possible

Stage 2: Making a full assessment

Case Study: Ben Bradshaw aged 5 years 6 months - Referral

Gina Bradshaw is:

- caring well for Annie who is thriving
- making over frequent visits to GP with Annie
- finding Ben's behaviour increasingly difficult to manage

The Health Visitor is concerned about:

- Ben's aggression towards Annie
- Gina's hostility towards Ben

Ben has hit his teacher and is aggressive to other children in school

Historical Information:

- First 9 months poor weight gain and frequent minor accidents as a toddler questioning supervision
- Aged 2 fractured elbow and dislocated shoulder. Gina reported pulling Ben away from electric stove.
