Ted Kheel, Founder of the Nurtured Nature Foundation

At 87, Thrall couldn’t be staying on this farm as a self-employed environmental consultant and author. Yet he is one of the most influential conservationists in the world. Thrall co-founded the Earth Island Institute in 1983, and he has been a leader in the environmental movement ever since. He is known for his work in the field of conservation, as well as his writing and lecturing. The Earth Island Institute is a non-profit organization that promotes environmental awareness and action. Thrall is a strong advocate for protecting the environment, and he has been involved in many projects aimed at preserving the natural world. He is a respected leader in the field of conservation, and his work has had a significant impact on the environmental movement. Thrall is a passionate and committed environmentalist, and he continues to be an influential figure in the field.