

SEAN BELDON

10000 steps.

15th- 29th NOVEMBER

Just like road trips, daily walks are a great way of getting to know your own backyard, albeit more localised and at a slower pace. It gives you time to think, feel and take in what you are looking at, seeing the same place differently every day.

I live my life through idioms and see most people, places and things through the same idiomatic lens. Everything and everybody has a story to tell. "10,000 steps." was mostly inspired by the Afrikaans saying "al om die kospot", which roughly translates as "closely, around and around the cooking pot". This is a description of staying close to home and being comfortable and happy where you are.

Each painting in this first series has a little story, idiom or metaphor. It could be of a song or saying remembered, or of something that has or is about to happen.
