

Sebastian Professional Shaper Fence Hair spray for texture and volume

Brigeo Don't Despair, Repair! Deep Conditioning Mask

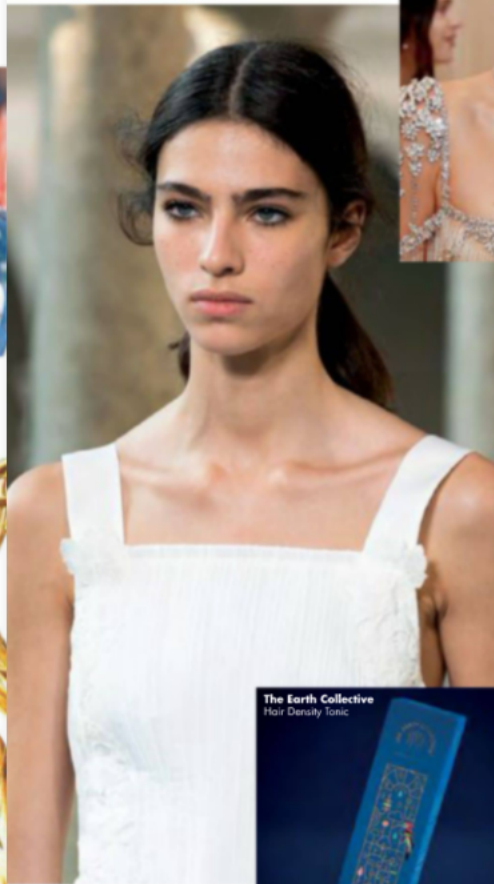

BRADS GALORE

Face-framing tendrils (at Altuzarra), braided updos (at Christian Siriano), low-key braided pigtails (at Studio 189), and Deepika Padukone's oftendone ponytail braids—all prove that the humble braid is set to lead the pack as the most significant hair trend of 2022. Easily oscillating between ultra-sleek and ultra-casual, this is a trend that promises to suit all your moods.

After cleansing your hair, apply a hydrating hair mask. Leave it on for 10 minutes and rinse. Gently towel-dry your hair. Use a hair serum on the ends and blow-dry. Braid your hair in the style of your choice and finish with some hair spray.

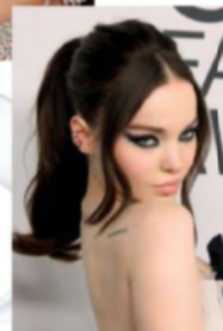

L'Oréal Paris Extraordinary Oil Serum

L'Oréal Professionnel Absolu Repair Oil

Schwarzkopf Professional Bonacore Hyaluronic Moisture Kit Spray Conditioner

ALL HAIL THE CENTRE PARTING

It's official—the centre part is here to stay. The hot debate that divided millennials (rooting for the side part) and Gen Z, seems to have reached a verdict. The low-maintenance centre parting will continue to reign supreme in 2022. Regardless of your face shape, hair type or length, cut or colour, this versatile hairstyle is sure to take you from day to night. The quickest way to court this style is to either wear your natural tresses with a centre parting or opt for a sleek, straight look.

Invest in a good haircare routine. Oil your scalp and leave it overnight. Wash with a nourishing shampoo and conditioner. Rinse and towel-dry your hair. Follow with a leave-in conditioner. Part your hair in the centre and finish with a spray of a volumising mist.

The Earth Collective Hair Density Tonic