

Graph the Sight Words!

I originally saw this activity done in the classroom next door to mine, (as in the picture shown below) and was given permission to share it with you here! This activity was designed to be done in a whole group setting, but would probably also work in a small group as well with some modifications. My class does this as a part of our morning calendar routine. Each day, our helper of the day chooses one sight word flash card out of the bag and reads it. Then he or she finds that word on the graph and colors in one space for that word. Then the class sings that sight word song from HeidiSongs Sing and Spell the Sight Word CD's! (See <http://www.heidisongs.com>). To finish up the activity, ask the children which word has the most and the least amount of boxes filled in on the graph, and if any of them are equal. A blank master is also provided so that you can change the words to suit your own students' needs. I chose to use the words that my school district requires that seem to be the hardest ones for my students this year.
