MC (Master of Ceremony) Duties

There are several key tasks or responsibilities that fall to the MC - The MC will start the evening by introducing themselves to everyone during or at the end of canapés when asking everyone to move into the dining area of the reception if it is a seated wedding. If it is a cocktail style wedding then this should be done at the beginning of canapés.

When everyone has moved in and is seated (for a sit-down reception), the MC will inform the guests of any "housekeeping" (where the restrooms are located, where exits are located in case of a fire and where the designated smoking area is located). The MC's next duty is to inform the guests of the timing or the running order of events, such as servers coming around to take main and or entrée orders, when the speeches are going to be, when is dessert, cutting of the cake, first wedding dance and when the reception will conclude.

The next duty at this point is to start introducing the wedding party in pairs and allowing a time gap between couples so as they can get to the wedding table. Once all the wedding party has entered and is standing behind their chairs, the MC will ask everyone to be upstanding and once everyone is standing, then the MC can introduce the newlyweds.

Once the happy couple have taken their seats then the MC can ask everyone to be seated. The MC will liaise with the band leader or DJ so as to help keep the music flowing so that there is no gaps or silence during the night. A good DJ or band never lets this occur and is always on it and ready.

As the evening progresses, the MC will maintain communication with the newlyweds in case they would like to savour some special moments that may move the time line out a bit here or there. Usually before dessert the MC will ask the newlyweds to come up the cake for a ceremonial cutting, usually accompanied with a pre-chosen song, then announce to all the guests that they can capture this special moment with cameras and video, usually allowing the professional photographer to take the first lot of pictures.

The guests about the transportation arrangements if a bus or taxis have been pre-arranged and to remind the guests to gather all their belongings, phones, cameras, shoes, jackets, purses, etc.

Wedding Rituals

As part of our dedication to create a highly individual wedding experience, the Parkwood Village planners have access to a global source of information on wedding rituals from around the world.

Whether you choose an International ritual, or your own; you can be sure than any sentiment you feel strongly about can be made into a beautiful and poetic ritual as part of your celebration.

Pebbles Ceremony

The Stone Ceremony is a great way of involving all your wedding guests at your wedding ceremony. Small, sometimes polished stones or pebbles are handed to the wedding guests and wedding party as they arrive at the ceremony. During the wedding ceremony the wedding guests and bridal party hold these stones and make a loving wish for the couple's life and future together. Each stone represents a special wish that the couple can take with them to reflect on during their married life together.

Guest Wedding Favours

Are gifts given by hosts to their guests on special occasions such as Bar Mitzvahs, Weddings, Baptism, First Communion or Confirmation. They usually include Jordan almonds, known in Italian as Confetti. Five sugared almonds symbolize health, wealth, happiness, fertility and long life.

Release Of The Butterflies

Fill the sky with their release of beautiful butterfly releases to add a unique and memorable touch to your special day. Spectacular and enchanting ~ releasing butterflies are a popular new tradition and an unforgettable experience for all! The butterfly has long been symbolic of new beginnings, good fortune and joy.

Sand Ceremony

A sand ceremony is another way of involving guests using different coloured sands. Each colour of sand can represent something different. Whether it is 2 colours, one for the bride and 1 for the groom, or multiple colours that having meaning to the couple. The sand is poured into a vase or jar in layers that can never be separated, representing the unity of the couple. During a wedding sand ceremony, it's common to include some wording that explains what is happening, and what it represents to you. Though you can do it in silence, or during a reading or song, consider having your officiant say a few words.

Tea Ceremony

In a traditional Chinese wedding, the tea ceremony is one of the most significant events. It includes very formal introductions of the bride and groom and shows respect to their families. Historically, after they exchanged vows, the couple would serve tea to the groom's family (the bride would have served tea privately to her own family that morning). Today, many couples choose to show respect to both the bride and groom's families by hosting tea ceremonies for both sides.

A romantic wedding scene at night. A bride in a long, flowing white gown and a groom in a dark suit are embracing on a balcony. The balcony has a metal railing. The background is filled with lush greenery, including a large bush on the left and tall palm-like plants on the right. A crescent moon is visible in the dark sky above the couple. The scene is illuminated by warm, soft lights, creating a dreamy atmosphere.

We look forward to creating your dream wedding day
