

Discover Inclusion Consultancy

With Kerry Thalia

Prices are based on one family accessing the sessions for one child, if you have multiple children that you are seeking help for this should be made clear up front, as each child has their own needs and so requires different adjustments. If you are looking for training or advice for a group, please explain this in your enquiry as different prices will apply.

Initial consultation – 2 hours £95.

Follow up sessions – 1 hour £40, 1.5 hours (siblings) £50.

You must have completed an initial consultation or one of Discover's virtual training courses to get access to follow up sessions.

Consultation sessions could be used for...

- Starting and making significant progress with toilet training. It is often difficult, and it's easy to justify giving up with phrases like "they're just not ready", but pushing past these struggles is the first step in successful toilet training. Follow up sessions can be used for adapting methods, adding resources, and updating your action plan.
- Learning how to communicate with your child. It can be difficult for children with disabilities and neurodivergences to communicate though often not for lack of trying. We can support you to find the communication method for you and ensure you can all use it effectively and positively.
- Introducing academic learning at home. Your child may love reading or maths, but you aren't sure how you can help them access these activities at home. We can support you to use toys you already have or start with new resources to fuel their engagement and learning.

This is not to limit what we can do but to give some ideas before you start your sessions.

What you can expect from us...

- Prompt email responses within 48 hours.
- Careful attention to your requirements. I aim to tailor these sessions to you and your child's individual needs.
- Well-planned, research based and professionally delivered sessions.
- Clarity regarding fees, invoicing, and expenses.
- Action plan including recommended websites or resources for further development and next steps between sessions.
- For online sessions conducted across time zones fees may change in line with the time in the UK.
- Flexible timings to match your family dynamics.

In return we expect...

- Commitment to dates and fees, please ensure payment is made before your first session. Each session can be paid for separately before they are attended, or a batch can be paid for at once.
- Engagement: for these sessions to be effective and for you to get the most out of them please ensure you are in a quiet space and have the time to engage with the session.
- Open mindedness: we may cover topics you are familiar with or skills you have learnt before, others will be new. It is important that you are open minded and willing to reflect critically on your current practices or approaches.
- We are aware that life can get in the way of booked sessions, cancellations can be made up to 4 weeks before the booking without penalty. However, any later than this and we will struggle to fill the time slot, for this we invoice and expect payment of 50% of the fee.

Terms and Conditions

All sessions are available over Zoom. You are welcome to have multiple members of your family present, or anybody else that you think needs to be involved in the conversation. To make the most of your session it is best to find a quiet space however we are aware this isn't always possible. Sessions will be recorded so we can focus on you during the session and to ensure action plans are accurate to the discussions had.

Sessions can be provided at a substituted price through the Assistance programme.
