

★ DANIEL BOONE UNIT SUMMARY ★

Did you know that the Boy Scouts were patterned after Daniel Boone? He was a skilled hunter and observant tracker at a very young age, able to live off the land, earning him the praise of his father and many others in their community. You will study him and his family not only because of his skill but also because of his love for nature and his determination to lead the way for others to follow. In this unit, you will learn about hiking, tracking, maps, and communicating when separated by distance or language. All of these skills are studied in the context of the forests of America, including the Appalachian Trail. You will take an in-depth look at trees and insects and their connections to other aspects of life in the wilds. Examining these topics also gives you the perfect opportunity to write about them to explain what you have learned. This unit takes a look into the history of our land and its peoples, as well as serving as an introduction to the move west of the growing frontier.
