

Anne Qammaniq-Hellwig

Anne Qammaniq-Hellwig is an Inuit artist who was born and raised in Iqaluit, Nunavut and is where she currently resides. She is 22 years old and since childhood has envisioned herself as an artist. Naturally, Anne gravitated into the arts and attended the Nunavut Arctic College's Jewellery and metalwork program.

Anne enjoys exploring with different materials such as, gems, stones, ivory, muskox horn, antler, fur, sterling silver, copper, and brass. Her work is a mixture of traditional Inuit art with modern and contemporary imagery. She takes inspiration from Inuit art and uses simplicity to create unique pieces that reminisce about the past and pushes forward with a modern twist.
