

Curtis Wedge • Chairman

Curtis joined the Army in 2001 as Direct Entry Officer after graduating from the University of Manitoba with Bachelor of Arts degree majoring in Criminology and Political Studies. During the first half of his over eleven-year career he was a Logistics Officer with 1 GS Battalion and 1 Service Battalion. In 2007 he was accepted to the Military Police with postings to 1 MP Regiment and the Canadian Forces National Counterintelligence Unit. He released from the military in 2013 and now works as a Health & Safety Advisor for Shell Canada Limited. Curtis is married and has a daughter, 13, and a son, 11. He enjoys coaching his children's sports teams, fishing, and cycling.