

About PFB Vanish

PFB Vanish was created in 1999 to prevent ingrown hair resulting from shaving, waxing, tweezing, and electrolysis and laser hair removal. Ingrown hair, properly known as Pseudo Folliculitis Barbae (“PFB”), is a condition where screw-shaped hair growth pattern winds itself like a screw into the skin. This generally looks like a small hard pimple and is painful. Unfortunately many people chose incorrectly to pick or tweeze the hair to remove it. This can lead to infection and scarring.

In order to relieve skin irritation and ingrown hairs effectively a treatment must be able to penetrate the barrier properties of the skin. In 1999 there was only one product on the market. The marketplace was looking for another option that was kinder to the skin and with less of an odour.

Ottmar Stubler (Founder & President of PFB Vanish) listened to what the marketplace was saying and clearly understood the need for a better product. His extensive background in esthetics and beauty industry education allowed him to develop a superior solution to this common problem. The result of his commitment to meeting the need of the market was PFB Vanish, a solution that contains powerful yet gentle exfoliants to enhance penetration for a quick response, usually with 48 hours. PFB Vanish is renowned globally as the best product in its class.

Today, the PFB Vanish portfolio includes a number of best-in-class topical treatments for ingrown hair prevention and treatment, skin irritation, hyperpigmentation and pre-waxing preparation.
