

Tile Redi Products Now Available on Home Depot Website

03/18/2009

Tile Redi®, a manufacturer of pre-formed, one-piece shower pans for time and labor saving installations, announced that its shower modules and allied products are now available on The Home Depot website (homedepot.com).

Contractors looking to save time and money on large-scale commercial projects, or DIY homeowners can simply log on to The Home Depot website, click on "Baths" and then "Showers," and then by clicking on the first option listed "Bases," simply scroll through to purchase the Tile Redi line of one-piece shower pans with fully integrated, pre-pitched drains that are ready to receive ceramic, glass or stone tiles immediately after being installed. You can also search the site by brand name, entering "Tile Redi."

In addition, Tile Redi's innovative Redi-Flash waterproofing flashing system can also be easily found and purchased with a simple search.

Tile Redi shower bases are available in over 60 standard single curb and barrier free models , and when used in conjunction with Redi-Flash, provide a complete, easy to install system that complies with all local building and plumbing codes. Each tile ready shower pan comes complete with a fully integrated drain, curb, and splash walls, and is pre-pitched ¼" inch to the drain. Do-it yourselfers and contractors alike will appreciate that tile ready shower bases can be installed in an hour or less, saving time and labor, and they won't leak.

For more product information, visit www.tileredi.com.

Building Online

March 18, 2009