Squirrel Needs a Break

Kristen Remenar

Illustrated by Matt Faulkner

Hardcover

Fiction

Age 4-7 years

Pages 32

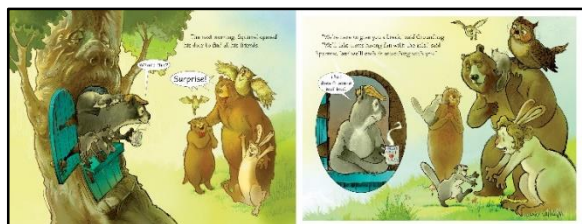

Trim Size 11 x 8 ½

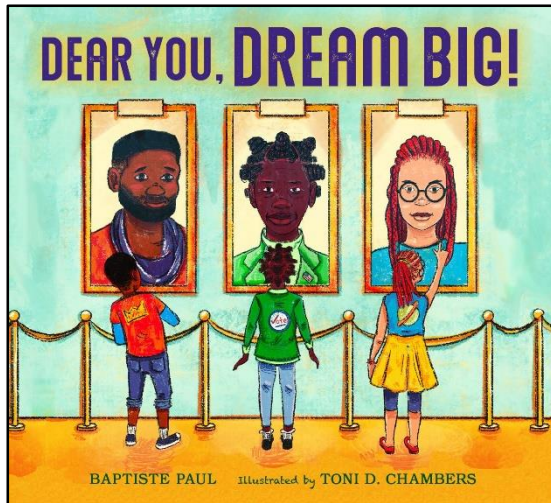

Rights World

Every parent needs a break sometimes! Single parent Squirrel learns to lean on friends in this heartwarming and funny picture book about family and community.

Squirrel is at his wits' end after a long winter inside with his kits. His friends—the other woodland creatures—decide to work together to give him a much-deserved break. They hatch a plan to take turns helping Squirrel relax while they entertain the kits. Squirrel enjoys a day of self care as the kits play, bake, and do fun activities with the other animals. It doesn't take long for Squirrel's friends to realize just how hard he works each day.

Full of humor, this book embodies the message that it takes a village—or, in this case, a forest—to raise a family!

Dear You, Dream Big!

Baptiste Paul

Illustrated by Toni Chambers

Hardcover

Fiction

Age 5-8 years

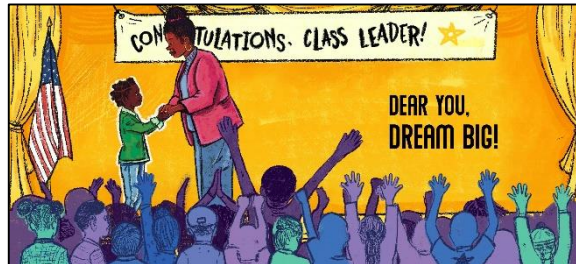

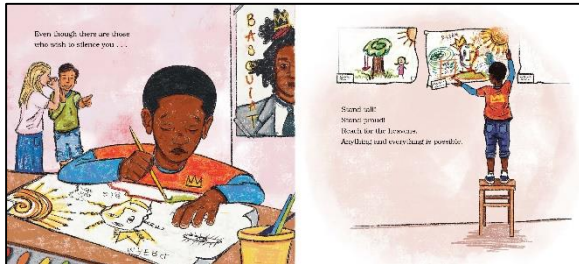

Pages 32

Trim Size 10 ½ x 9 ½

Rights World

A new classic for Black and Brown children. ANYTHING and EVERYTHING is possible! Perhaps you want to become an artist, or a scientist, or maybe even president. Even when—especially—the path is hard, Dear YOU: Dream BIG.

A personal, poetic, and uplifting affirmation from Caribbean-born author Baptiste Paul encouraging today's Black youth to reject those who wish to silence them, exclude them, and reject their talents with one powerful refrain. A powerful, lyrical anthem of Black pride celebrating Black creativity, leadership, and innovation that's perfect for fans of All Because You Matter, I Am Every Good Thing, and I Am Enough.

Kindred Spirits: Shilombish Ittibachvffa

Leslie Stall Widener
Illustrated by Johnson Yazzie

Hardcover
Nonfiction
Age 5-8 years
Pages 32
Trim Size 11 x 9
Rights World

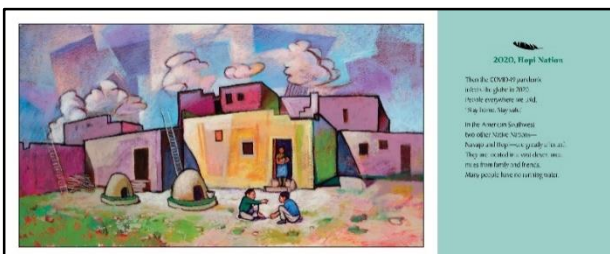

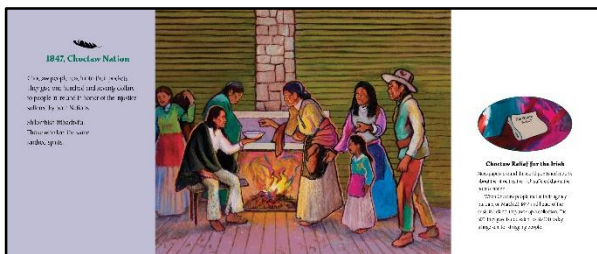

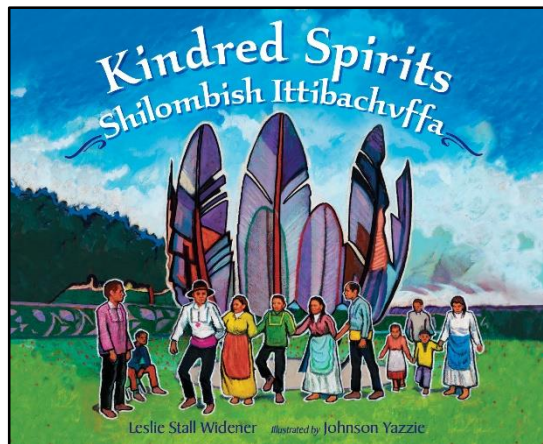

A nonfiction picture book about the inspiring true pay-it-forward story that bridges two continents, 175 years, and two events in history—connecting Ireland, Choctaw Nation, Navajo Nation, and the Hopi Tribe.

1845. The Potato Famine devastated Ireland. An ocean away, Choctaw people heard and were moved by the similarities to the injustice they had suffered on the Trail of Tears. Though they had little, they gathered money to donate.

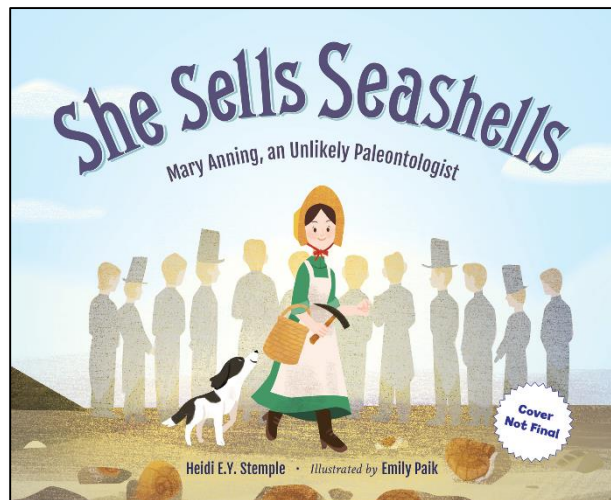

2017. Irish people built a statue to remember their connection to the Choctaw Nation—twenty-foot high feathers in the shape of a bowl.

2020. COVID-19 disproportionately ravished the Navajo Nation and the Hopi Tribe. Irish people remembered the Choctaws' kindness and paid it forward by donating.

Empathy creates kindness that lives well beyond a single act and includes more people the bigger it grows.

She Sells Seashells
Mary Anning, an Unlikely Paleontologist

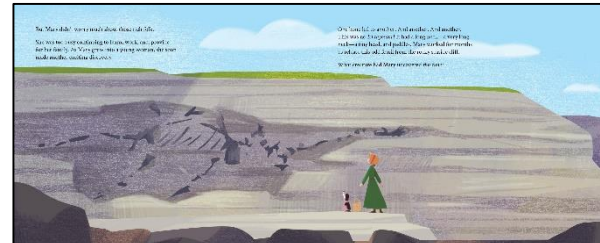

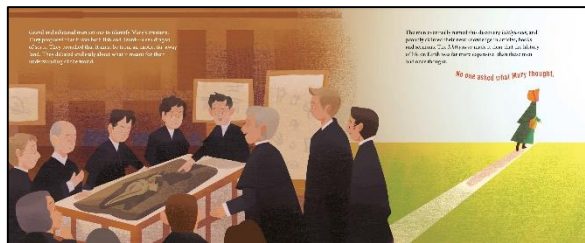

Heidi E. Y. Stemple
Illustrated by Emily Paik

Hardcover
Nonfiction
Age 5-9 years
Pages 40
Trim Size 11 x 9
Rights World

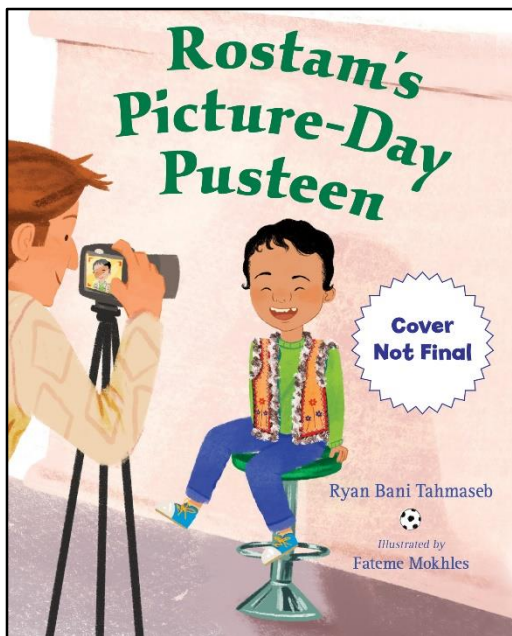

Once forced to the sidelines of science, Mary Anning is now recognized as the world's first paleontologist. A rousing, empowering nonfiction biography for STEM-minded kids.

At first, Mary Anning collected shells and other curiosities to sell in her family's shop. Then she began discovering fossils that changed the course of how we understand life on Earth. But educated male scientists at the time—men who bought and studied Mary's fossils—did not recognize her skills, nor did they include her in their discussions as the field of paleontology emerged.

Self-taught and passionate, Mary was too busy making new discoveries to worry about those rich educated men. Today she is recognized as the first paleontologist. Back matter expands on Mary's remarkable life, including where she lived, relationships, and the tricky dynamic of being a woman of her time.

Gingerbread Dreidels

Jane Breskin Zalben

Illustrated by Thai Phuong

Hardcover

Fiction

Age 4-7 years

Pages 32

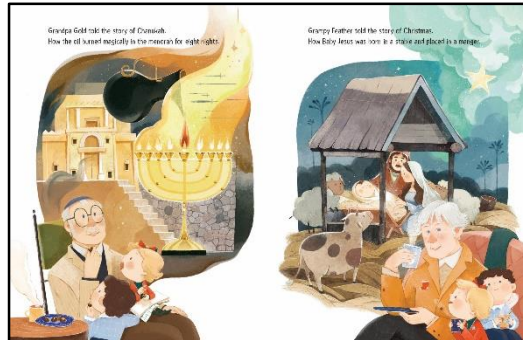

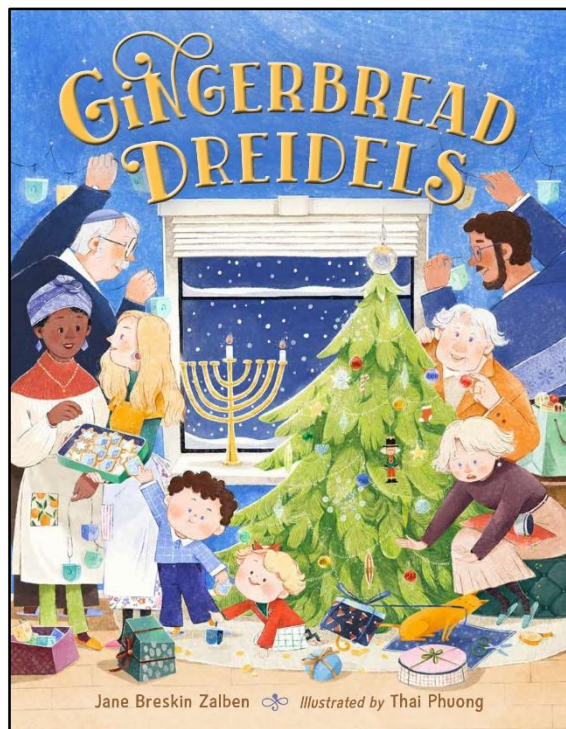

Trim Size 8 ½ x 11

Rights World

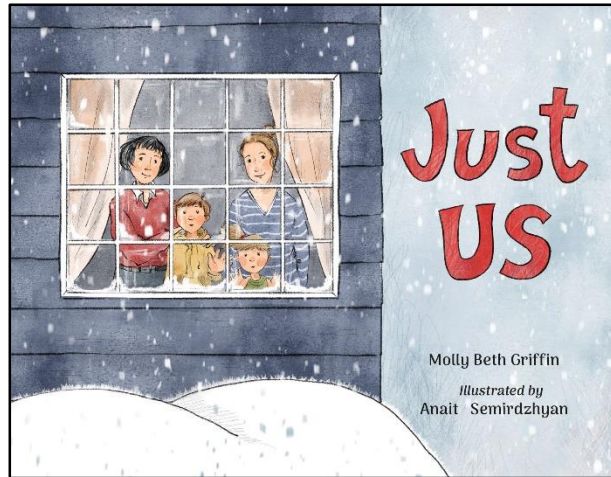

Chanukah and Christmas come together in this story of an interfaith, intergenerational family's blended holiday. Gelt and gingerbread, menorahs and trees, red and green and blue and white . . .

When Christmas and the first night of Chanukah occur on the same day, Sophie and Max are confused. The children are used to the two parts of their identity remaining separate, celebrating with each part of their family in turn. But this year is different: all their grandparents are coming to partake in both Jewish and Christian traditions together.

Complete with a sweet acknowledgment of the concern at the forefront of each child's mind—how will this affect the presents?—Gingerbread Dreidels is a story for interfaith families that shows how love is at the center of every holiday.

Just Us

Molly Beth Griffin

Illustrated by Anait Semirdzhyan

Hardcover

Fiction

Age 3-7 years

Pages 32

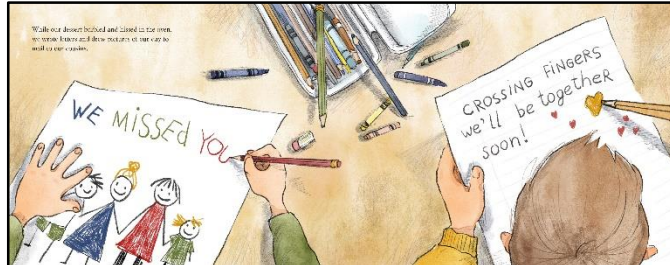

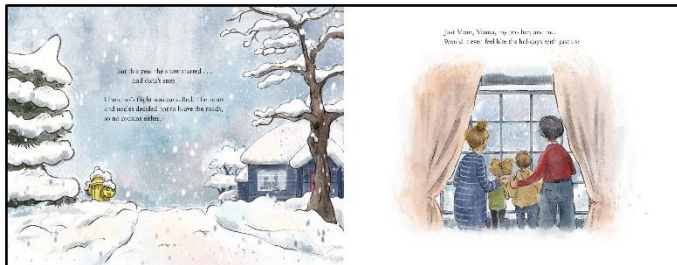

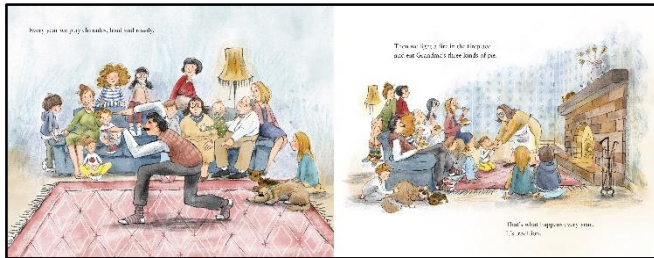

Trim Size 11 x 8½

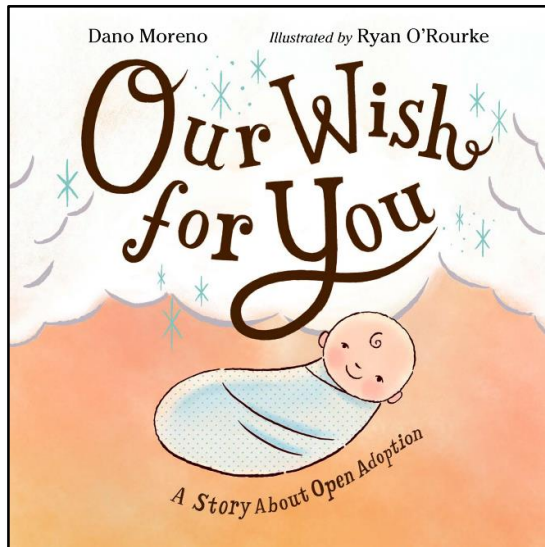

Rights World

How can it be the holidays if everyone isn't together? Relevant and relatable, Just Us will provide comfort and warm hearts at a time of the year when maybe it's needed most.

What happens when a storm prevents all the relatives from coming in for the holidays? No Grandma, no aunts, no uncles, no cousins. No fun!

The family will have to adapt their traditions to versions that can be done on a smaller scale—from a more manageable stew dinner, a hike in the snow, or a game of cards instead of rowdy charades. Navigating disappointment with mindfulness and gratitude, the family pieces together a holiday full of new traditions, while still acknowledging that it's okay to miss the old ones.

Big Babies

Patrick O'Brien

Hardcover

Nonfiction

Age 3-7 years

Pages 32

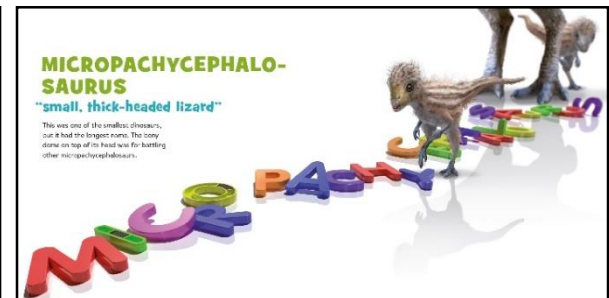

Trim Size 9 x 9

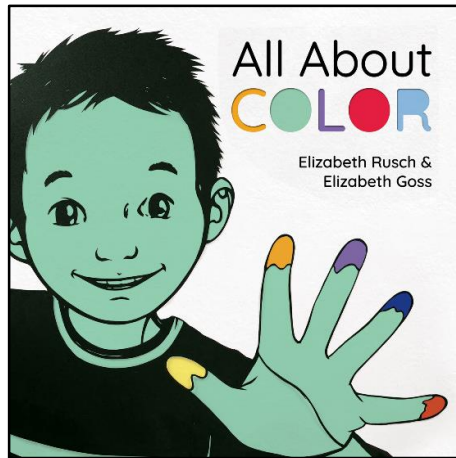

Rights World

For dinosaur lovers and fans of Steve Jenkins's Prehistoric Actual Size, this unexpected look at prehistoric life explores what is known about our favorite extinct creatures before they became massive, full-grown adults.

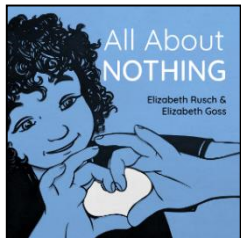

How big (or small) was your favorite dinosaur as a baby? We see how some stack up, alongside childhood favorites such as a toy truck or a rubber duck. Did you know that T. rex hatchlings were only about the size of a turkey? Or that the huge, long-necked brontosaurus is said to be only eleven pounds at birth?

In this early picture book, young readers learn that before dinos grew to be large and powerful, they started off as something much smaller to behold.

All About Color

Elizabeth Rusch

Illustrated by Elizabeth Goss

Hardcover

Nonfiction

Age 4-8 years

Pages 32

Trim Size 9 x 9

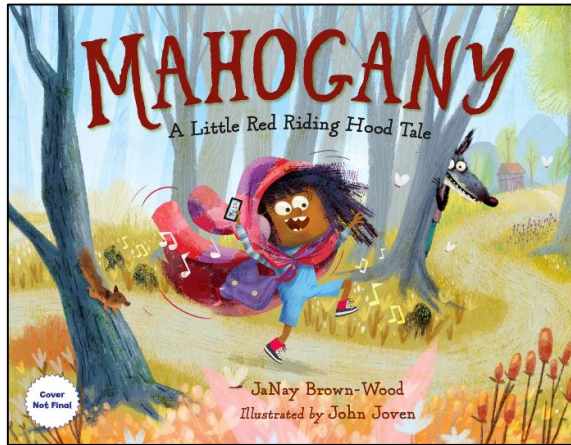

Rights World

A fresh picture book of simple but surprising exploration of the art, science, and emotion of color. This mindful meditation encourages children to see the world differently.

Colors don't exist. The sky is not blue. The grass is not green. A violet is not even violet. But color still plays an important role in our lives. Color can be a signal, as in a traffic light. It can be a call for help, like a life jacket. It can help us stand out or blend in, or feel like part of a team. Colors even affect our mood: red can make us angry, blue can make us sad, and yellow can brighten our day. Young readers will never look at color the same way again.

Mahogany
A Little Red Riding Hood Tale

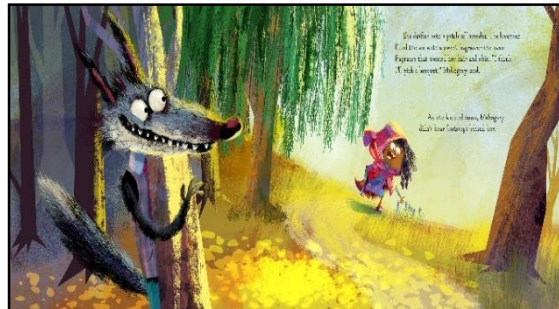

JaNay Brown-Wood
Illustrated by John Joven

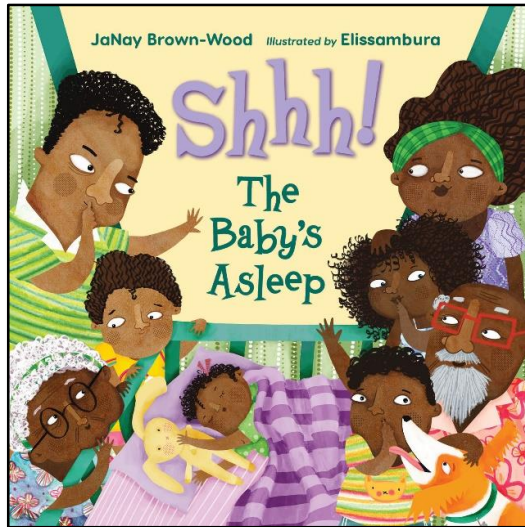

Hardcover
Fiction
Age 5-8 years
Pages 32
Trim Size 11 x 8 ½
Rights World

A clever, Black contemporary twist on Little Red Riding Hood, Mahogany embraces the beauty—and magic—of her culture to thwart the Big Bad Wolf.

Mahogany is a spunky girl who loves to sew, listen to music, and wear fresh kicks. On the way to deliver homemade gumbo to Grandma's house, she encounters a hungry wolf. Because Mahogany is clever, she stands by a willow tree, where her long, black curly hair blends with the branches. She hides in the forest, where her ebony skin merges with the shadows. And Mahogany knows the lavender scent of her skin will mix with the smells of flowering plants, tricking any wolf nose.

Ultimately, Mahogany's Blackness, her wits, and her sewing skills all save her in this refreshing, celebratory, and innovative retelling.

I Heard
An American Journey

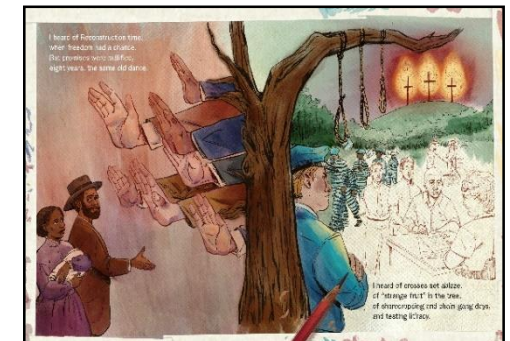

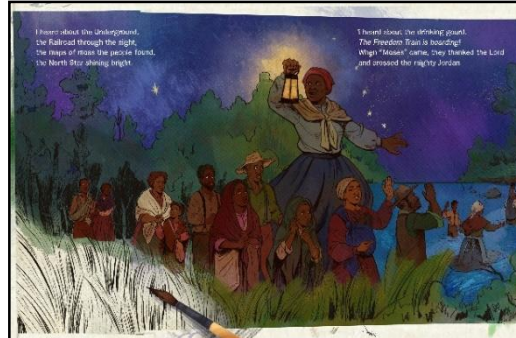

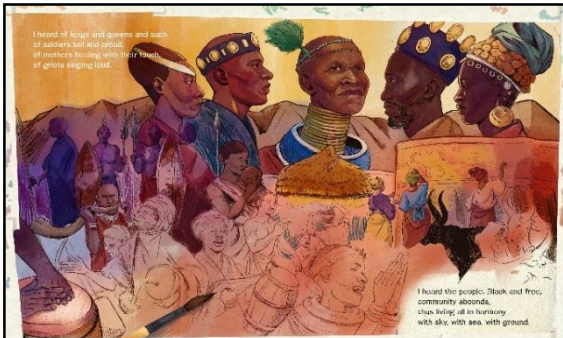

J. Nailah Avery
Illustrated by Steffi Walthall

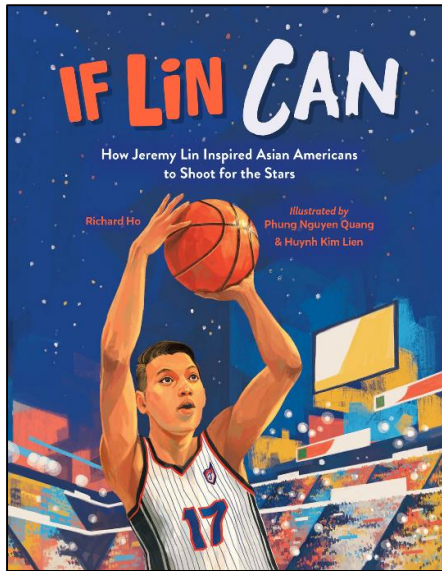

Hardcover
Nonfiction
Age 5-8 years
Pages 32
Trim Size 8½ x 11
Rights World

A powerful and poetic picture book about Black history in the United States, from the shores of Africa and slavery, to the civil rights and Black Lives Matter movements.

With stunning lyricism reminiscent of traditional African spirituals and today's rhythm and flow of hip-hop, a teacher shares the history of being Black in the US, while continuing to march into present day—undeterred and proud to be Black. Author J. Nailah Avery shows you have to understand the past to shape the future, and knowing who you are gives you the strength to do just that.

The book's back matter on Black history is an extensive resource and provides additional context to the reading of I Heard.

Everyone has the jitters at the thought of a day without their favorite teacher! When the substitute teacher doesn't show up, the other adults in the building pitch in. The art teacher runs a writing workshop, the school nurse teaches science, and the math teacher leads reading! Alternating perspectives show the day from the students' point of view and from Mrs. Hartwell's, as the kids keep her informed through a flurry of humorous electronic updates.

"There are 'Pissin' Green' eggs" the woman said, nodding to her daughter, "like a green one with her nose that's full of piss and green eggs."

"And the whole flock is so ugly with!" Pissin' said.

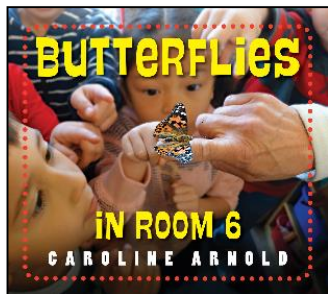

"Yes, but I'm going home now so we better close."

The film still on the left is a scene from "The Great Dictator" (1934) showing Charlie Chaplin as the Jewish Anarchist being thrown from a horse by a man in a red and white uniform. The cartoon on the right is a parody of the same scene, with a sign in the background that reads "THE GREAT DICTATOR".

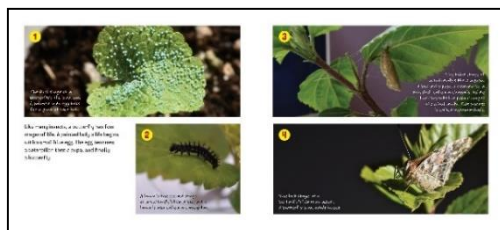

In this latest medieval math adventure, readers learn about finding percents as part of a whole by using fractions. Percilla and Lady Di must figure out a way to make sure all of their customers get their fair share of the geese they ordered—even after some fly away!

Cindy Neuschwander is a retired elementary school teacher who now works part time as a math remediation teacher. She lives in San Luis Obispo, California. She was inspired to write the Sir Cumference series while visiting medieval castles in England.

The Kid

Jeff Schill

Hardcover

Fiction

Pages 240

Trim Size 6 x 9

Rights World

Ages 10 and up

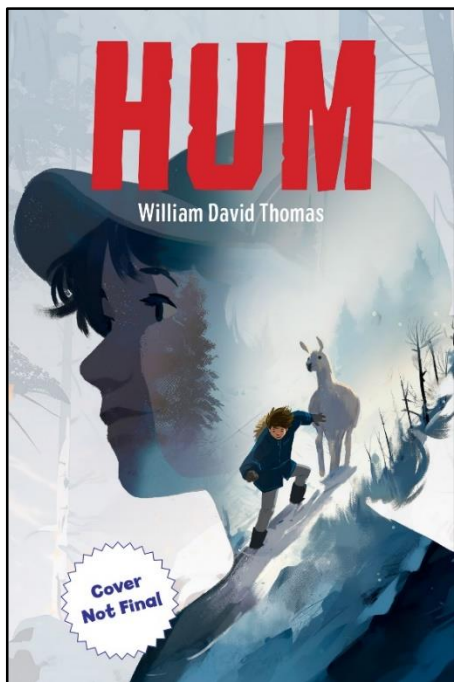

The Kid is the quickest draw in the West. Little does anyone know he isn't real. A fast-paced, cleverly woven, witty middle-grade western adventure.

It's 1882 in Destiny, Colorado. Fourteen-year-old Henry Upton's parents have died, and he's trying to keep his three younger brothers together on the farm. Henry writes a story about The Kid, the fastest draw in the West, to keep people away from their parts. But his stories will soon put more than his family and the farm at risk. Meanwhile, Herbert might lose his job as an editor at Gunslinger Magazine in Philadelphia if he can't find out why the author of The Kid stories recently stopped sending them. The soft city slicker is headed out west to find the author.

And Snake-Eye Sam has set his sights on The Kid, whom he thinks is real. Sam has evil in his heart and jealousy in his veins. Breaking out of prison to shoot down The Kid is about the only thing that can cure the itch running down Sam's spine. Three storylines—plus Gunslinger Magazine's The Kid stories—intertwine and come together just as Snake-Eye Sam and Herbert both arrive in Destiny. On Main Street at high noon, a master plan is put in place at the same time that Henry and the Destiny sheriff get what they need to keep the Upton brothers together. Pull up for a tall frothy glass of sarsaparilla and enjoy this engaging and satisfying Western tale, full of quirky characters, snappy dialogue, and heart.

A chance encounter with an old llama astonishingly reveals a language Allen didn't know he could speak in this captivating and one-of-a-kind middle-grade novel.

Eleven-year-old Allen has a recurring nightmare, a persistent habit of humming, and difficulty connecting with other people. Making a fresh start, he and his grandmother move to a small village in northern New York.

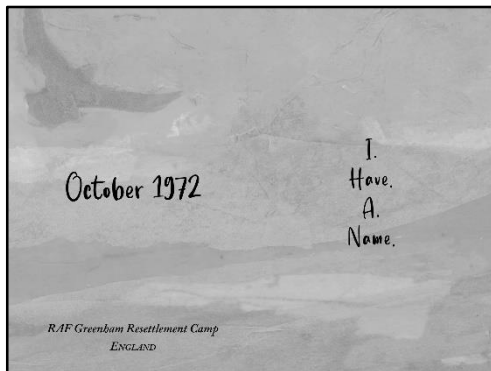

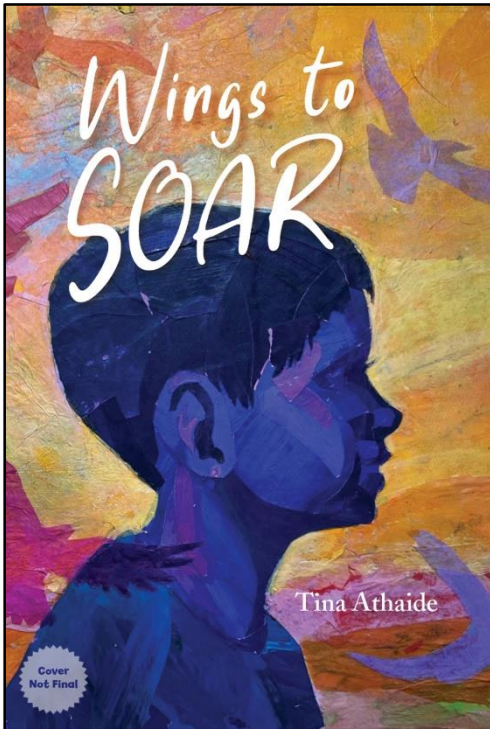

But when he meets an old llama at a winter festival, the encounter reveals a language he didn't know he could speak and unveils repressed memories that contradict what he has long believed about his earliest years and his parents' deaths.

When the llama's life is threatened, Allen vows to free it. Together they begin a desperate trek through a snowy wilderness, a journey on which Allen must wrestle with lies about his past while struggling against the elements to survive.

Allen stared home. At the corner, he glanced back at his room. Across the former entrance, still a mess there he wondered, "I'm not playing," for sure, but the guys themselves... I don't think so. Not really. They just... we just didn't...
Heads, except for needing a good showering, they probably won't miss me, either.
He sighed, shook his head, and returned smiling. He hummed quietly, his chest made steady sounds on the sidewalk.

CHAPTER 3 CONNECTIONS

Allen thumbed through a three-week-old issue of Specter Illustrated he'd picked up from the table in the waiting room. Grandma sat beside him, checking off items on her "Things to do before we leave" list. He glanced at the small notebook she held on her lap.
Stop the newspaper.
Check.
Change of address forms at the post office.
Check.
Allen's appointment with Dr. Yolk.
Check.
Dr. Yolk wasn't even a real doctor. He wasn't the kind of doctor who took your temperature or gave you shots. He was the kind of doctor where you sat in a big comfy chair while he asked questions like, "And how does that make you feel?" They often talked about his dream, his recurring nightmares.
"Very, Allen. Come on in."
A man near with a bald head and short grey hair moved by an open door across the room. Allen got up and stumbled into the office. He kicked off his sneakers and sat cross-legged in the big chair. It was a little weird getting into over the years. He took out another big chair, facing him.

Ages 10 and up

A historically relevant middle-grade novel-in-verse about a girl's resiliency when faced with hatred towards refugees. Readers of The Night Diary and Inside Out and Back Again shouldn't miss out.

It's 1972 and Viva's Indian family has been expelled from Uganda and sent to a resettlement camp in England, but not all of them made the trip. Her father is supposed to meet them in London, but he never shows up. As they wait for him, Viva, her mother, and her sister get settled in camp and try to make the best of their life there.

Just when she is beginning to feel at home with new friends, Viva and her family move out of the camp and to a part of London where they are not welcome. While grappling with the hate for brown-skinned people in their new community, Viva is determined to find her missing father so they can finish their move to Canada. When it turns out he has been sponsored to move to the United States, they have to save enough money to join him.

Told in verse, Wings to Soar follows a resilient girl and the friendships she forges during a turbulent time.

Friends of Dorothy
A Celebration of LGBTQ+ Icons

Anthony Uzarowski
 Illustrated by Alejandro Mogollo Díez

Hardcover
Nonfiction
Pages 176
Illustrated
Trim Size 7½ x 9
Rights World

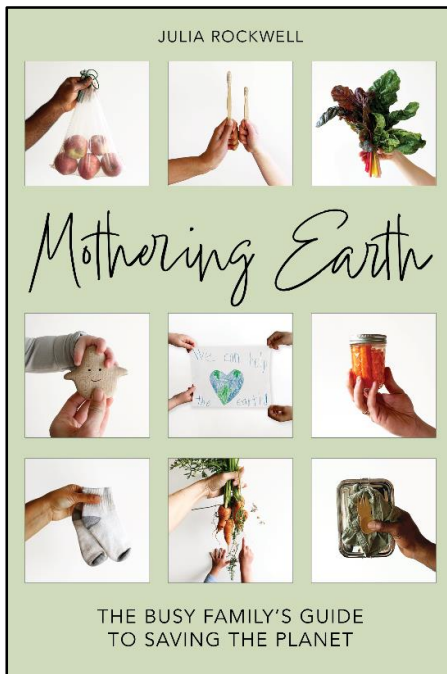

The ultimate celebration of LGBTQIA+ icons profiling 40 artists, entertainers, writers, and activists who inspired the queer community with their style, openness, and diversity.

What makes a gay icon? Free, uninhibited expression; an open mind; creativity; and bravery. Friends of Dorothy celebrates a wide range of people with the strength, vulnerability, charisma, and style that set them apart and gave them status with the queer community.

Queer icons include supporters of LGBTQIA+ rights such as Marsha P. Johnson, and others like Divine and RuPaul who shattered social barriers to become important cultural ambassadors of queerness, changing the world in the process.

This collection welcomes readers into a flamboyant world populated by larger-than-life figures who inspired LGBTQIA+ people—over the decades—creating controversy, challenging conventions, and sometimes putting their own lives on the line in order for new generations to live in a more equal and accepting world.
