

EARTH HOUR

A LIGHTS-OUT EVENT FOR OUR PLANET

Click flashlights, light lanterns, and get ready to turn electric lights out to celebrate Earth Hour! Wherever you come from, you can help our planet.

Earth Hour--a worldwide movement in support of energy conservation and sustainability--is sponsored by the World Wildlife Fund for Nature (WWF). During Earth Hour, individuals, communities, businesses, and monuments in more than 7,000 cities turn off nonessential electric lights for one hour. Across each continent--from the Eiffel Tower to the Great Wall of China to the Statue of Liberty--one small act reminds all of us of our enormous impact on planet Earth.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Nanette Heffernan is a children's book author and sustainability consultant. Her lifelong goal is to make Earth a better home for children whether by making them laugh or addressing environmental issues that affect their generation.

Nanette first learned about Earth Hour several years ago when she was driving home at night across the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, California. Suddenly the lights on the bridge went out. She became an instant fan and supporter of this movement to recognize the energy we use.
