Writing Basics

Writers are encouraged to “show, don’t tell” in their stories. What does this mean?

The next day on the bus, Lavender asked, “Are you having fun with GeeGee?”

“Yes,” Poppy fibbed. “Want to come over and make potato prints with us?”

“Sure,” said Lavender. “Too many babies around there for me,” said Perunia.

What can you tell about Poppy’s and her friends’ personalities by these sentences?

In this scene the text says “GeeGee tugged Poppy’s ears”.

What does this action mean to GeeGee?

What does this action mean to Poppy?

What emotion is the author showing here?

Poppy was not in the mood for a lullaby.

Why didn’t the author just say, “Poppy was mad, or defiant or uncooperative?”

Imagine that your character is frustrated, or mad, or excited. How can you say that without using those words?

Author and Illustrator Roles

Who is the Author? Who is the illustrator? How does the illustrator tell the story without the author's words?

What can you tell about Poppy's family though this picture? Does the text describe their personalities? Describe the personalities of GeeGee, Herb, Mama & Daddy, by what you see in the pictures.

Whose point of view tells the story? Can you retell this scene from Herb's point of view?

How do illustrations set the mood for the story? Compare and contrast the mood in these two scenes.

The next day Mrs. Rose rang the Ringy Thing for show-and-tell.
- Poppy jumped up, "I made these puppets ALL by myself. Nobody even helped me."

"Because everybody was too busy with those babies," said Peninus. Poppy scowled.

Writing Process Activity

The author revised Poppy’s Best Paper over fifty times to get to the final book.

The author’s writing process looks something like:

1. Think of ideas/brainstorm
2. Write first draft
3. Revise - changing big things first, then littler things
4. Let the story sit and revise again
5. Get help from writing friends
6. Repeat steps #3-5 as many times as needed
7. Get final revision feedback from editor
8. Revise again

Mrs. Rose’s Story Starters

1. What kind of big sister or brother would I be?
2. Everything would go wrong if ________ happened.
3. This was going to be the best show & tell ever!
4. How to plan a party.
5. Write a day-in-the-life story about your pet, or favorite toy.

OPINION PIECES
Choose a topic from the first three story starters. Write an opinion piece with reasons to back up your ideas. In groups, students compare and contrast their opinions.

PROCEDURAL
Create a procedural paper with steps that can be followed in the classroom. Explain the steps in detail. Break into groups and following directions EXACTLY, complete the steps. Use a phone or video camera to film the process. As a group, evaluate what works, and what leads to unintentional results.

NARRATIVE PIECE
Use topic # 5 to write a narrative recounting a sequence of events, with details to describe actions, thoughts and feelings.
