MAGNETPAINT

MagnetPaint is a water-based emulsion paint that contains very fine ferrous powder, because of this the paint is dark grey in colour. The paint is best applied with a short-haired nap roller. For a smoother surface, apply quite thickly and then smooth off with a trowel. We recommend a minimum of three coats and adding more coats will increase the magnetic receptivity.

Once dry, you can paint over it with any emulsion colour of your choice, wallpaper on top or for a writeable surface pair with Blackboard Paint or our dry-wipe SketchPaint.

MagnetPaint is water-based, non-toxic and is VOC and lead-free, making it child-friendly. The paint itself is not magnetic, but rather, has magnetic properties that create a surface to which you can apply magnets to (magnetically receptive). It is safe to use in your home, school or office and will not affect your computer, television, video or any other magnet sensitive equipment.

BEAMERPAINT

Projection Paint Designed For Professional Installation

Paint For Pros BeamerPaint can transform any smooth surface into a matt, bright white and reflective surface that is ideal for video projection.

Ideal for creating a home cinema experience or a high-quality presentation screen for the office or meeting room.

HIGH-PERFORMANCE BeamerPaint consists of a primer and a finish. After applying two layers of BeamerPaint Primer, the surface has to be optimised with our BeamerPaint Finish. This finish provides a hard but smooth top layer, which makes the projection sharp and rich in contrast.

USAGE Before the projector paint can be applied, the surface must be stable (weight-bearing), dry and clean. The subsurface must comply with the requirements set for gypsum substrates (level 4), or at least with a comparable classification. The paint can easily be applied with a paint roller. The primer must dry for at least 5 to 6 hours after the first layer has been applied. Before the finish can be applied, the same drying time must be allowed. For professional installation

BeamerPaint 2 + 1 Litre Kit White
