

Revolutionary Wines

The world's first wine ranked by the Earth
using cutting-edge science

Lauded as the “Tesla of fine wines” by top collectors, SGC Wine’s revolutionary wine making method has defined them as the biggest game-changer in the history of wine and set a new precedent for the entire industry. They have quietly been disrupting the traditional fine wine industry since 2005 with their unique approach using high-tech soil analysis.

Its legacy is rooted in their pioneering use of cutting-edge science to analyze and grade vineyard soil across Bordeaux and apply this to winemaking. By identifying and harnessing the power of the 4 foundational pillars essential for truly great vineyard soil. For the first time in 160 years, it has levelled the playing field of the legendary Bordeaux region.

As SGC is made using only the very best Bordeaux grapes, grown in the highest quality soil, production is extremely limited, for this reason it is strictly only available to purchase via invitation through their coveted Le Cercle membership. It has fast become the ultimate wine connoisseur’s wine. This elusive and secretive wildcard of fine wine has trailblazed through to the heart of the biggest wine aficionados and critics cellars the world over.

The yet unreleased La Liberté, is the latest wine offering from SGC, its first wine to be made available to non-members. Enveloped in the spirit of freedom, it represents the epitome of SGC’s mission to redefine global wine ranking, beginning on the hallowed grounds of Bordeaux. La Liberté symbolizes a breaking free of the classical 1855 Bordeaux ranking, complimenting it with the new scientific one based on soil grading.

The first La Liberté is a 2015 Medoc, a tribute the most beautiful terroir on the left bank. Dense, full bodied, deep ruby red, the black currants are in harmony with the cocoa, with delicate roses an invitation to taste the tertiary notes of this grand vin. An exceptional vintage with great character, the grapes having been preserved by the water-logging winter rains that allowed the grapes and vines to withstand the heat of summer. Delicious to enjoy today or in 30 years...

Great things can be expressed in a single, poignant word, freedom, La Liberté. The motto for all that SGC stands for in unleashing the secrets of nature’s bounty.

“Selection of the parcels is definitely the first step to take into consideration. It is a major evolution in the wine industry.”
