FINE JEWELRY

[I-SAIR-ra] 'a series or catalog'

My intuition has always been my true north. I am formally trained as both a dancer and an architect and informally as a student of art and design; these life experiences inform all the pieces that I create. I do not recall the exact moment that I decided to exclusively focus on dance nor do I remember the leap that I took to study architecture. I do know that there has always been a resolute clarity of what comes next at each phase of my life. There is a continuum in my artistic endeavors that has guided me to designing and making jewelry.

“i seira”, translated from Greek, means a series, a catalog. When I began this new artistic journey, I thought quite a bit about beginnings & my Greek heritage was my first cultural reference when I was a child. i seira is a series of fine jewelry that is the culmination of all the artistic experiences of my life.

Each piece of my jewelry is handmade and I favor the color and luster of high carat gold. In all types of design, my aesthetic remains consistent. I veer towards the understated but always with a twist. Often inspired by art and architecture, my hope is that my work feels both modern and ancient, sculptural and refined, elegant and easy to wear. I am a subscriber of the idea of quality over quantity and believe in collecting pieces to be worn forever.

FINE JEWELRY

Simplicity is evocative.
There is richness in the editing and paring back.
It requires stillness sometimes to see.
