BRUT 18

About

Romanian designer maker, born in 1989, with a passion for slow living, design, and crafts.

He developed an early curiosity for wooden yachts raced at the turn of the 20th century during his studies in naval architecture and production at Southampton. This fascination grew during his practical boat-building course in Pembrokeshire, Wales, where he was struck by the beauty of decay and erosion on these once-glorious vessels.

Tiberiu's love of natural materials and the geological processes that shape them is at the heart of his design process. He finds inspiration in the textures and patterns created by erosion, and this informs his approach to creating unique wooden objects. He employs a range of materials and techniques to assemble his works, imbuing each one with a distinctive character that reflects his passion and creativity.

Welcome

Each piece in this collection is a sculptural work of art in its own right, designed to make a statement in any space. With a focus on unique shapes, textures, and materials, this collection embodies the very essence of contemporary design.

So whether you're a design enthusiast, an art collector, or simply someone who appreciates beautiful, well-crafted furniture, we invite you to explore this exceptional collection and discover the perfect piece to bring your space to life.

Disclaimer:

Due to the irregular shapes, the maximum measured dimensions were taken into account. as the representing values.

18 Brut

The latest collection by the artist is a tribute to the brutalist movement, infused with the power and beauty of natural erosion. What sets this collection apart is the use of fire in the production process, which has created a unique and unforgettable texture on each piece.

The result is a collection that is both brutal and beautiful, a testament to the power of nature and the artistry of the designer. The rough-hewn surfaces, angular lines, and bold shapes of the furniture are a nod to the architectural movement that inspired them.
