Hi Justin,

Thanks for reaching out. As you may know, we assist Air Force Research Labs with innovated work and the Qore Ice Plates of interest for some folks with the 711th Human Performance Wing as a personal cooling device. There's interest in the Wing surrounding personal cooling, heat fatigue, and performance optimization. Folks have been trying to build coolers, and we are trying to get the cutting edge tech in-house for performance evaluations to inform next steps - we want to make sure the AF knows there are products already on the market that may fit the bill when it comes to personal cooling.

Have you done any studies surrounding skin or core temperature effects or physiology monitoring while wearing the Ice Plate that you could share?

Hope you are well!

Best Regards,

[REDACTED]

Hi [REDACTED]

My team saw your order and brought it to me because we are big fans of the institute here at the shop! I wanted to reach out and see what your plans were with the kit and see if there's anything assistance we can provide?
